BRITISH INTERESTS IN DANGER

NO SECURITY IN NORTH CHINA JAPAN AIMS CAN'T BE CHALLENGED U.S. SEES NO HOPE OF PREVENTING COUP

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance 1894. Received, Nov. 20, 8 a.m.)
London, Nov. 19.
The authorities are displaying increasing concern over the North China autonomy movement. They have admitted that apparently there is nothing Great Britain is able to do.
It is reliably learned that Britain has received no assurance that the British control of the Peiping-Mukden Railway will be respected.—United Press.
AMERICA WON'T ACT
Washington, Nov. 19.
The Administration is watching the Sino-Japanese situation with increasing misgivings. However, there is a growing conviction that there will be little world reaction for the present to whatever develops in North China.
The absolute extent of the United States activity would be to draw Japan's attention to the fact that her Government was a joint signatory to the Nine Power Treaty. Even this mild form of protest was not certain to be made, it is stated.

Officials consider that at present no military or naval force in the world is in a position to challenge Japan's programme. The British Fleet is concentrated in the Mediterranean and the United States has repeatedly intimated that it has no intention of embroiling itself in someone else's war.—United Press.
CONFERENCE IN WASHINGTON
Washington, Nov. 19.
The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, informally conferred on the problem of the North China autonomy movement to-day.
It is understood that the similarity of the Anglo-American interests in the affected regions formed the basis of their conversations.
It is believed that the British and American Governments are studying how the Nine Power Treaty will affect the situation.
However, members of the State Department said that at present no action under the Treaty was contemplated. There has been no indication that British and Americans are considering interfering with the autonomy movement.—United Press.
NOTHING FORMAL
Washington, Nov. 19.
Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, visited the State Department to-day and discussed the North China situation with the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips.
Mr. Phillips subsequently stated that Sir Ronald had presented nothing formally. Their conversation dealt with various matters, but nothing of particular importance.
He added that the United States was receiving voluminous reports from Consular and diplomatic representatives in the Far East but had made no plans to invoke the Nine Power Pact. Such a step was not now under consideration.
No consideration had been given to the question of whether the United States Embassy would be maintained in Peiping.
He could not discuss the withdrawal of the American troops stationed at Tientsin.—Reuter.
NOT A WORD
Washington, Nov. 19.
Sir Ronald Lindsay would say

Above are seen Ethiopian warriors taken prisoner in the recent fighting being escorted to a concentration camp by Italian native troops.

LEADERS MEET IN TIENTSIN
DOIHARA HURRIES AUTONOMY
CHINESE ASK MORE TIME
Peiping, Nov. 20.
It is learned that General Sung Cheh-yuan, one of the Big Five of North China, secretly left Peiping yesterday by automobile. He was bound for Tientsin, and authorities in that city to-day confirmed his arrival, early last evening.
He stated he had gone there on private business, but the assumption is that he will meet General Han Fu-chu, the powerful Governor of Shantung, to-morrow.
It is reliably learned that Major-General Doihara, who is allegedly engineering the North China movement, threatened to-day to leave Peiping.
He is said to have complained against the Chinese "insincerity". But he was persuaded to remain a little longer, certain officials explaining that a decision of the magnitude he demanded could not be made so speedily.
It has been authoritatively stated that the Japanese leaders are demanding that the North China provinces accept the autonomy plan or else prepare for a Japanese invasion to force the issue.—Reuter.
DEFENCE COUNSEL EJECTED
ASSASSIN-SUSPECTS' TRIAL DELAYED
WILD SCENES IN COURT
(Special to "Telegraph")
Aix-en-Provence, Nov. 19.
There was sensation crowded upon sensation to-day at the trial of three men accused of complicity in the murder of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in Marseilles last year.
The counsel for the defence, Maitre Desbons, was ordered struck off the role of barristers following wild scenes. The first incident followed the action of an usher in handing the jury a large sealed envelope.
M. Desbons immediately demanded information as to the contents of the parcel and the sitting was suspended. The jurymen on resumption said they had destroyed the contents of the envelope and did not want further messages. It was later learned that the envelope handed to the jury contained a copy of the newspaper alleging that the terrorist assassins of King Alexander had used arms supplied by Italy.
The court was again in turmoil during the afternoon in consequence of a violent argument between the Judge, the Prosecutor and M. Desbons. The Judge finally ordered M. Desbons forcibly ejected from the court. The trial was suspended until to-morrow.
The prisoners, meanwhile, are threatening a hunger strike unless M. Desbons is recalled.—Reuter Special.
CHINA MAY ACHIEVE NEW UNITY
LONDON PRESS ON JAPAN'S PLANS
MILITARISTS' MISTAKE
London, Nov. 19.
If, under Japanese tutelage, the newly independent provinces of North China are well administered, their people might have a happier existence, and trade interests of other countries should certainly not suffer, declares the Daily Telegraph in an editorial to-day.
"Whatever makes for peace and order and prosperity throughout China must be welcome to us. But can we expect such effects from the severance of the Northern provinces?" the journal asks.
The scheme, it continues, is obviously a counter-attack on the growing unity in China.
For some time Nanking and Canton have been drawing closer together and the Kuomintang Congress has been hammering out a policy of co-operation between the Central Government and the South-west. It is natural that Japanese militarists should desire to interfere, but their methods may well have the opposite effect to what they intend.—Reuter.

Riot Victim Buried
"WE DIE FOR EGYPT THE ETERNAL"
(Special to "Telegraph")
Cairo, Nov. 19.
Representatives of all political parties, including Nahas Pasha, participated in the imposing funeral this afternoon of a student, son of an officer of King Faud's bodyguard, who was shot by a British police officer in the riots on Thursday.
The funeral procession was headed by a band and followed by school girls bearing flowers, and then by a body of students.
As the coffin was carried out of the hospital, fellow-students who were injured in the rioting appeared at the windows, shouting, "We die for Egypt, the eternal."
A large police force in lorries followed the procession, but there was no disorder.—Reuter Special.
MINERS VOTE FOR STRIKE
ASKING GOVERNMENT TO INTERVENE
London, Nov. 19.
It is expected that overwhelming majorities will favour a national coal strike in Britain to enforce the demand for an advance in wages of two shillings a day.
The result of the poll will be announced to-morrow at a meeting of the Mine Workers' Federation of Great Britain.
There is still hope that the strike may be averted and the miners' executive will probably make a further approach to the Government to compel owners to negotiate wages on a national basis.—Reuter.

ITALIAN LINES BROKEN ETHIOPIAN TROOPS GAIN GROUND EMPEROR MAY BE ON WAY TO FRONT

Harrar, Nov. 19.
The Ethiopian counter-offensive is continuing, following the penetration of the Italian lines by a large force of warriors under Ras Seyoum's command.
At dawn to-day a vigorous assault was reported launched between Amale (which the Ethiopians claim to have recaptured on November 16) and Gorraheh. The offensive was led by Sitaurari Ayale, the Emperor's Chief Huntsman.
It is stated that heavy losses were inflicted on the defenders and the fighting continued until noon, when, the Ethiopians claimed, they succeeded in occupying the Italian positions.
Efforts may now be made by this force to turn the Italian left flank in the vicinity of the Amale.—Reuter.
ANSWERS ITALY'S PROTEST
FRENCH PREMIER CONCILIATORY
Paris, Nov. 19.
M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, has presented to the Italian Ambassador here the text of the French reply to Rome's protest against sanctions adopted by the League powers.
It is understood that the tone of the French note is moderate in every way, but that it marks no change in French policy. It explains that from the moment the League of Nations found Italy the aggressor, Article XVI of the League Covenant entered into the scheme of things, ipso facto, France, honouring her signature, could do nothing else but associate herself with the economic and financial measures organised at Geneva.
The note adds that the French Government does not abandon hope for a friendly settlement bringing to an end the hostilities in Ethiopia and the restrictions Italy will have to face as a result of international sanctions.—Reuter.
EMPEROR AT WAR?
Addis Ababa, Nov. 19.
Although the palace officials deny that Emperor Haile Selassie has left the capital for the front, it is stated in non-official quarters that he left by aircraft for an unknown destination.—Reuter.
ITALIANS ADVANCE
Djibouti, Nov. 19.
General Graziani's columns are advancing steadily towards Woredah, a point controlling the trails between the Fafan and Jerer Rivers.
Occupation of this point will enable the early cutting of the Ethiopians' communications between Harrar and Jijiga.
It is reported that Italian raiding parties have already reached the outskirts of Jijiga.—United Press.

BUT SANCTIONS MUST GO ON

BRITISH MOTOR INDUSTRY
INCREASED ACTIVITY RECORDED
London, Nov. 19.
Increasing activity in motor engineering is the feature of reports from industrial centres.
The head of the group of companies producing Morris, Wolseley and M.G. cars, which claim to produce half of all the cars manufactured in Great Britain, has announced the placing of orders for £10,000,000 worth of raw materials.
A firm in the Manchester area has received Government contracts for 28,000,000 worth of motor chassis for the War Office and Air Ministry.
A new enterprise has been started at Birmingham to manufacture specialised steel sheets, stampings and drop forgings for use of the motor trade.—British Wireless.
BRITISH REPLY
London, Nov. 19.
The British and French replies to the Italian protest against sanctions will be handed to the Italian Government on Friday and published.—(Continued on Page 7.)

DAVIS TO HEAD U.S. DELEGATES
TAKES CHARGE OF PARLEY PARTY
PREPARE FOR NAVAL TALKS
New York, Nov. 19.
Mr. Norman Davis, America's Ambassador Extraordinary and leading diplomat, heads the United States delegation to the London Naval Conference, it was announced to-day.
President Roosevelt has also appointed the Under-Secretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, and Admiral Standley, one of the Navy's experts, to the party.
The appointment of Mr. Phillips, President Roosevelt explained, was made so that the Under-Secretary could familiarise himself with the situation of the conference and then return and act as a liaison officer in America.
President Roosevelt informed the press that the United States attitude would be to oppose navies that cost more than those existing to-day.
The sailing date of the delegates is not yet announced.—Reuter.

Preparing For The Future

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE
MOCK "GAS" RAID
DRILL AT HOME

Residents in various of East-end flats watched nurses in gas-masks giving first aid recently to gas-patient "victims" in a smoke-filled house.
It was a striking demonstration, organized by the London Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade, to test the efficiency of its nurses, and it gave the spectators some idea of what they must expect in the case of an enemy air raid, and showed them how the casualties would be dealt with.
A warning announced the beginning of the raid, and a few seconds later exploding smoke bombs filled the yard with drifting yellow smoke, which surrounded a number of boys playing football.
Fifteen of them fell to the ground, and within a few moments nurses wearing gas-masks and gloves, and carrying spare gas-masks, rushed on to the scene with stretchers.
The spare masks were quickly fitted on to the victims, who, after first-aid treatment had been given, were carried into a gas-tight and splinter-proof air-raid shelter.
So realistic were these operations that one woman spectator rushed out of the yard shouting, "I can't stand it! I can't stand it!"
Inside the air-raid shelter the "victims" were quickly stripped of all their clothing, which was sent through to a gas purifying plant, while the "casualties" themselves were also scrubbed in a bath of disinfectant to rid their skins of any clinging gas.
Those whose lungs had been affected were treated with oxygen and gas anti-dotes, while "wounds" were washed and dressed.
They were then passed through the clothing store, where they were dressed and then sent either to their homes or to hospitals for further treatment.
This was the most complete demonstration which has yet been given of the way in which first-aid work would be carried out in the event of enemy air attack, and it was watched by Major H. B. F. Dixon, M.C., R.A.M.C., on behalf of the War Office, who complimented the nurses on the way they had carried out their work.
Arrangements have already been made by the St. John Ambulance Brigade, working in conjunction with the Home Office, to set up a large number of these first-aid posts all over the London area.

GARBO FILM RECEIVES MUSSOLINI AWARD

"ANNA KARENINA" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer photograph co-starring Greta Garbo and Fredric March, has been awarded first prize, consisting of an artistic trophy, donated by Premier Benito Mussolini, for the best non-Italian film shown at the third biennial motion picture exhibit at Venice.
The committee's verdict characterized "Anna Karenina" as a perfect work of art.
The official communiqué announcing the award said:
"The excellent interpretation of Greta Garbo, joined with the efficacious and human translation into images of Tolstol's masterpiece, makes of this film a work of undoubtedly artistic value."
Presentation of the Mussolini Cup will be made by the Italian Consul Auguste Russo to Louis B. Mayer and Clarence Brown at a reception in Hollywood.
"Anna Karenina" was released in America recently and received favourable criticism as a mature version of Tolstol's novel. The picture was directed by Clarence Brown under the production supervision of David O. Selznick. The script was prepared by Clemence Dane and Salka Viertel.
Meanwhile, the film is breaking records throughout America. It is being held over for a third week by popular demand at the 5,000-seat Capitol Theatre, Broadway. Records established by "China Seas," another smash hit, were broken in Harrisonburg, Boston, New Haven, and Springfield, and were equalled in Bridgeport, Pittsburgh, Reading, and various other key cities.
In almost every other situation, "Anna Karenina" attendance exceeded "The Painted Veil," which was another great Garbo box-office success.

"But what did I find when I arrived? Nothing. No food stove; a tiny kitchen with a window to let the smoke out; no modern cooking equipment at all. I nearly returned at once!"

"Within a few months I had installed an up-to-date kitchen and a refrigerator in the palace, and I collected a very fine cellar of wines. Unlimited money was given me and I was able to get some of the best food that has been known to France since the war."

"There was always plenty of meat in Addis Ababa, but very few vegetables; potatoes there were, of course, but very few green vegetables like peas and spinach."
14-Course Lunch
"It was quite a usual thing for 15 oxen or sheep to be killed for one banquet, and they were always eaten the same day. It was on account of the meat-eating that twice a week the Emperor starved himself and ate nothing but a little salad and some fish."

M. Chambard had the tremendous task of preparing all the banquets during the week of coronation celebrations in 1928. He still has the menu of one lunch—it has 14 courses!

"But I had to leave finally," M. Chambard added regretfully. "I was quite happy to stay, but my wife found Addis Ababa very lonely. The Emperor even offered me a 30-year contract and as much money as I wished to be deposited in a French bank. But I left for Paris in 1928 and then on to London."

"It will be a great pity if anything ever happens to the lovely kitchen I installed," M. Chambard sighed.

LAST VOYAGE

Before a sixty-five-old James Herrivan set out at sea from Gorteston for a fishing trip in the drifter Boy Ray, his wife begged him not to go.

He promised her that it would be his last voyage.

While the Boy Ray's nets were being hauled in about twenty miles out to sea on the following morning Herrivan's leg caught in the hauling rope and he was thrown overboard.

The crew got him back and cut adrift valuable nets to rush back to port. But Herrivan died on the way.

STAVISKY
WIDOW
ON TRIALLAW SAYS TWENTY FRENCHMEN
CAN DO WRONGBEWILDERED JURY IN
STAVISKY TRIALSREVELATIONS MAY SHAKE FRANCE
TO ITS FOUNDATION.

Paris, Nov. 10.

After nearly two years of investigation and bitter public controversy, marked by the riots of February 6, 1934, and the overthrow of two governments, twenty persons indicted in the Stavisky affair are now on trial before the Assizes Court of the Department of the Seine.

The trial is one of the biggest France has ever seen, with the courtroom jammed to capacity with hundreds of defendants, lawyers, witnesses, civil parties to the accusation, newspapermen and photographers. Disappointed crowds milled about the corridors of the sombre Palais de Justice vainly seeking entry, and were held in check by hundreds of republican guards.

When presiding Judge Charles Barnaud brought down his gavel this morning he opened a labyrinthian tangle of political and financial testimony which is expected to take at least a month before a bewildered jury.

The twelve men who must form their judgments from the cross-questioning of defendants and witnesses by the astute Assizes justices and the scores of opposing lawyers have been notified that their decisions must be on the answers to no less than 1,956 questions.

Tons of documents, giving all the tangled ramifications of Sacha Stavisky's colossal swindles, which were disclosed after the death of the super-crook on January 8, 1934, must be waded through to reach the verdict. And even at that, only two of Stavisky's many frauds will be directly invoked, the scores of others being brought in merely on "information."

Biggest Since Dreyfus

Not since the Dreyfus case has France been so torn by a great "affaire," and not since the Panama Canal scandal have so many public men been either directly involved or suspected of complicity in fraud.

Some of the twenty defendants have waited in prison nearly two years before the far-reaching inquiry was brought to an end. Others, after months of waiting, secured their liberty on bail.

One of the latter is the only woman in the case—beautiful Arlette Stavisky, widow of the master-crook who spent almost a year in the Petite Roquette prison before she was released and allowed to resume an obscure life as possible in the southwest corner of Paris with her two children, who still have no notion of the scandal involving their name.

On the dock with her, flanked by gendarmes, are the once respected mayor of Bayonne, Joseph Garat; former deputy Gaston Bonnaure; ex-editors Albert Dubarry, Pierre Darius and Camille Aymard; lawyers, businessmen, a former general, and Stavisky's lieutenants. The charges against them range from fraud and forgery to receiving stolen goods, and are based on Stavisky's swindles through the fraudulent issuance of bonds on the municipal pawnshop at Bayonne and before that at Orleans.

His machinations concerning worthless Hungarian bonds and his so-called "public works" company will be invoked only indirectly.

Chief prosecutor is Procureur General Fernand Reux, and he is assisted by Avocats Generaux L. Gaudel and G. Casagrande.

The full list of accused, given in the order of their alleged guilt, according to the indictments drawn up by the examining magistrate, is as follows:

1. Gustave Tisser, comptroller of the municipal pawnshop of Bayonne, accused of fraud, making false entries in the organization books, and issuing bonds on fake jewelry.
2. Joseph Garat, mayor of Bayonne, charged with fraud and complicity, giving false estimates on jewels pawned at Bayonne.
3. Henri Cohen, jewelry appraiser, charged with fraud and complicity, giving false estimates on jewels pawned at Bayonne.
4. Raoul Desbrosses, Stavisky aide, charged with issuing bonds not registered in the Bayonne pawnshop accounts.
5. Vincent Sigoin, ex-police inspector, charged with being a gendarme and pledging more than 20,000,000 francs in fake jewels.
6. Paul Guehin, insurance company executive, charged with fraud and complicity by accepting fraudulent bonds for his company and taking a personal commission.
7. Albert Dubarry, ex-editor of the newspaper Le Petit, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained and with intervening at the Ministry of Public Works in Stavisky's behalf.
8. Gaston Bonnaure, former deputy, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained, amounting to 330,000 francs. He claims Stavisky paid this as lawyer's fees.
9. Georges Gaulier, lawyer, charged with receiving 70,000 francs fraudulently obtained when he acted as lawyer for Stavisky.
10. Guldou Ribaud, another Stavisky lawyer, same charge; also accused of making certain pay-offs and establishing contacts in high places.
11. Pierre Darius, editor of the weekly Le Petit, charged with receiving 100,000 francs from Stavisky for ending a campaign against the Bayonne racket.
12. Paul Levy, editor of "Au Ecouteur," and the late Repart. Charged with receiving 300,000 francs from Stavisky for advertising in the Repart, after which statements about Stavisky were published in Le Petit.
13. Arlette Simon Stavisky, charged with receiving fraudulently obtained money; accused of full knowledge of Stavisky's swindles.
14. Henri Depardon, one of the swindler's handymen, charged with accepting 152,000 francs in fraudulently obtained money, and with being Stavisky's accountant and paying teller who handled more than 50,000,000 francs.
15. Gilbert Romagnolo, Stavisky's right hand man; receiving stolen money; generally aiding the swindler for many years.
16. Henri Lavette, theatre director, charged with being one of Stavisky's principal lieutenants who always accompanied him in his travels; charge: complicity in fraud, receiving stolen money.
17. Emile Farault, jewelry appraiser at Orleans, charged with valuing fake emeralds for Lavette.
18. Barthelemy, former general, charged with using false documents in connection with the Orleans pawnshop, and with being on Stavisky's board of directors for other enterprises.
19. Georges Hatel, participated in pledging some of Stavisky's fake emeralds.
20. Camille Aymard, former editor-in-chief of the daily Liberte, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained.—United Press.

CENSUS BY
DICTATORGUNS TO SIGNAL
FREEDOM

Constantinople, Nov. 1. MILLIONS of Turks—and foreign residents—are confined to their homes to-day. They must not leave until the boom of a gun in every locality announces that the national census is over.

This is the second census since the advent of Kemal's regime.

Fines Or Prison

The streets are almost deserted except for policemen. Enforced by 3,000 gendarmes, the police inquire of any chance passer-by—"Where is your permit to circulate?"

Only census officials, doctors, midwives and journalists are likely to be found in possession of these permits, and anyone else at large may expect a fine or imprisonment.

All shops, restaurants, clubs and places of amusement are closed. All forms of transport are suspended.

Constantinople's streets and public places might have been abandoned owing to the ravages of a deadly plague. But from inside the houses issued the sounds of radio sets and gramophones. Young Turkey is evidently consoling itself with jazz.

The day's work of every inhabitant of Turkey will be answering 16 questions on special forms. Some will find it a difficult day, for the last census, taken in 1927, showed that only nine per cent. of the inhabitants could read and write.

Turkey then had 14,000,000 people, of whom 62 per cent. were women.

To-day's results are expected to reveal an increase in the population of about 2,000,000.

Fifty thousand officials and assistants are carrying out the great count.—Reuter.

MONOPOLY

Belgrade, Nov. 10. JUGO-SLAVIA is buying British. To-day a contract was signed between the Scottish firm of Yarrow and the Jugo-Slav Ministry of Defence for boilers and machinery to the value of £1,100,000, to equip three new destroyers.

The material will be manufactured in Yarrow's Clydeside yards. The hulls will be made in Jugo-Slavia by a French firm, but various fittings will be manufactured in Yarrow's small yard at Kraljevitza, on the Adriatic coast.

This order represents work for about 1,000 men for several months.

Recently £200,000 worth of military airplane engines for Jugo-Slavia were ordered from Rolls-Royce in London. British firms are ousting French firms from a market which till now has been almost exclusively French.

NOW...your complexion stays
all evening long...

JUST as you turn from your mirror—freshly powdered—then is when you look your best! Oh, if there were only a face powder that would help you keep that Mirror-Fresh appearance!

Take heart, fair lady. There is such a face powder, called MARVELOUS. This powder clings as you've always wanted powder to cling—and never thought it could.

Marvelous, indeed, is a different kind of powder, a different blend, developed by the Richard Hudnut laboratories after years of searching for a new, longer-clinging powder.

The Marvelous blend contains a substance entirely new to face powder—with a remarkable power to cling to your skin. In a sense, it becomes part of your own skin texture.

Marvelous Face Powder, therefore, never looks powdery on your skin. It looks like a new, more freshly-tinted, softer complexion of your own! And think of it—this flattering effect remains from four to six hours.

TRY IT AND SEE!

THE MAN WHO SAILS
TO NOWHERE

A FUGITIVE FROM FEAR

New York, Nov. 1.

ONE of the last surviving partners of Al Capone, the fallen king of Chicago's racketeers, has been discovered aimlessly sailing backwards and forwards across the Gulf of California.

Tony "Gentleman" Zybosko, who used to be Capone's "out-of-town salesman," was once threatened by a rival gangster organisation.

He felt safe while Capone was at liberty, but as soon as his chief went to gaol he became accused with fear of sudden death.

He roamed all over the country, but always he thought he was being followed.

In 1932, when he was in Mexico, he had a sudden idea that he would buy a yacht and spend the rest of his days at sea, where he would be safe from gangsters' bullets.

Never Comes Ashore

"Gentleman," not quite so debonair as in his heyday, never comes ashore from his yacht.

He puts into port, usually in Mexico, only when supplies are needed. His three dark, brawny Mexican sailors do all the buying.

Then he puts out to sea again and doesn't touch civilisation for another three or four months.

Zybosko seldom talks to his crew. Burned black by constant sunshine, he spends most of his days reading novels, magazines, and every detective story he can lay hands on.

He forbids his sailors to carry guns because he is afraid they might turn on him, but he always has a sub-machine gun at his side, even when the yacht is far out in the Pacific, lest, at some unexpected moment, the sudden death he dreads should confront him.

THE CLUEIT WAS PERFECT
BUT—

This shows you how dangerous circumstantial evidence can be....

AN old man was knocked down by a car on the Margate road.

The car did not stop. The man died.

A piece of a headlamp was found.

Scotland-yard broadcast an appeal.

A message came from Sheffield. A car with a lamp broken in the way described was in a garage there.

A detective was sent up with the piece of metal found on the Margate road.

It fitted the gap perfectly.

The owner of the car was sent for. He was Mr. Harry Berley, of Lew Stone's dance band.

Mr. Berley denied that he had been anywhere near Margate on that date. The detective pointed to the "evidence" of the broken lamp.

Mr. Berley said nothing. He reached into the pocket of his car, produced another piece of metal, and placed it in his headlamp. It, too, fitted perfectly.

GYPSY CONGRESS

Gypsy beauties who participated in the great procession through the streets of Bulcharost congress that inaugurated the Gypsies Union.

"OLD TOM" NOT FORGOTTEN

Every birthday and every Christmas, Old Tom, coachman to the Eucleuchas and now over seventy, living on a pension at Bosphill, receives a card of good wishes from Lady Alice.

Even when she was in Kenya, Old Tom received his birthday card.

ARMS SHAREHOLDERS
WILL REAP PROFITS
OF DEATH

Shareholders in iron, coal, steel and shipbuilding companies, who in some cases have gone without dividends for several years, and in others have had their capital written down, are again seeing the return of some or their money.

There are more than 150,000 shareholders in Vickers. A few years ago Vickers share were written down from £1 to 6s. 8d. each. They have touched a low level of 5s. 0½d., but have recently recovered to 19s.

Vickers shares are held by people of all descriptions, including many clergymen, doctors, soldiers and working men.

Here is a list of prominent shareholders whose shares were a few years ago, worth very little and have now shown recovery:

Ord. Shares held.
Douglas Vickers 52,500

The largest shareholding is that of Mr. Vincent Vickers, whose holding in 1932 was worth £22,000. To-day it is worth £83,000.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

MARKET UPWARD YESTERDAY

New York, Nov. 19.

The following reports on the New York Stock market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:—The stock market today was upward, with a demonstration of buying power over price-taking. Scores of issues reached new high levels on an advance of 13 to 14 points. The market was active, whilst stocks on the Curb Exchange were upward.

S. C. & F. New York office comment: Stocks: The market closed higher. Copper issues touched a new high level and traders are bullish. Business failures during the past week totaled 210 as compared with 212 failures the previous week. Demand deposits during the week amounted to $1,722,000,000 against $1,684,000,000 the previous week. The Southern Pacific Corporation's report for the first nine months of the year shows a loss of $2,067,365, against a loss of $1,688,943 during the corresponding period of last year. The Union Pacific Railroad Company has earned $2.11 per share for the 9 months ended September 30, against $4.13 per share last year.

Cotton: Approaching Court decisions, further unconfirmed rumors of a meeting by the Cotton Pool and the impending movement of the Indian and Brazilian crops failed to affect the strength of the market.

Wheat: The supply of Canadian wheat and the approaching availability of the Argentine and Australian crop have about offset the supply and demand situation here. Cash mill markets are firm. The reported dust storm in the South-West are of doubtful importance and December covering had a steady effect on the market.

Corn: There is apprehension regarding the unfavourable weather conditions, which may delay December deliveries. Rubber: The rumoured Dutch request for higher quotas has now been denied. It is estimated that shipments from Malaya during November totalled 45,000 tons, while the official figures for October indicate 48,258 tons.

ST. JOHN'S GOSPEL

FRAGMENT FOUND OF EARLY MANUSCRIPT

London, Nov. 19.

What is regarded as the earliest known fragment of any part of the New Testament and probably the earliest witness to the existence of the gospel of Saint John is the subject of a monograph published today.

A fragment containing on one side part of verses 31 to 33 and on the other of verses 37 to 38 of Chapter 18 of that gospel is one of the collection of Greek papyri in Rylands' Library, Manchester. It was originally discovered in Egypt and may with some confidence be dated in the first half of the second century Anno Domini.—British Wireless.

The Christmas and New Year letter-mail for Great Britain via Suez will be closed in the General Post Office on Friday, November 22, by the s.s. Hakosaki Maru as follows: Registered mail 5 p.m., November 22, ordinary mail 6 p.m., November 22. This mail is due in London on December 22.

A dinner dance will be held at Roppongi Bay Hotel this evening. The last bus leaves Repulse Bay at 1 a.m.

How To Keep Your Child Happy And Well.

It is generally a good sign when a child has a good appetite. Growing children need wholesome nourishing food, but sometimes he does more than justice to the fare provided, and then the overworked little "tummy" rebels and a bout of biliousness results. At such times Baby's Own Tablets are doubly welcome, for they quickly dispel the effects of over-eating and restore normal well-being. These little tablets neither gripe nor purge, they contain nothing injurious even to the youngest infant, and are a safe and reliable corrective for the health troubles of babies and young children. Baby's Own Tablets are the prescription of a medical child-specialist and have found a place in countless homes where there are children during the past forty years. For ailments such as constipation, upset stomach, diarrhoea, biliousness, colds, croup, to expel worms and relieve the pain of teething, there is no better medicine for children than Baby's Own Tablets.

BRITISH
RUSSIACZARIST DEBT MAY

RECORDS

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Nov. 19.

It is authoritatively learned here to-day that Britain is officially considering a long-term loan to Russia coupled with the possible payment of the Czarist debts.

The British Foreign Office, the Treasury and the Board of Trade are at present considering the practicability of the suggestion although formal negotiations have not yet been started.—United Press.

CRAZE FOR RECORDS

Moscow, Nov. 19.

The productivity records of Soviet workers compares favourably with those of the rest of the world, declared M. Molotov, addressing the All-Union Congress of Stakhanovites, adherents of the new craze for breaking labour records which is at present sweeping Russia.

In the coal industry, said M. Molotov, the highest productivity of mines in capitalist Europe had twice been exceeded and the best American standards had been surpassed in the motor car industry, while in the boot and shoe industry the Bata factories in Czechoslovakia had been left far behind.

M. Molotov denied that the feats of Stakhanovism had been achieved by overstraining the workers at the expense of their health. He emphasised that the results had been secured by rationalisation, and expressed the hope that Stakhanovism would absorb the whole mass of workers and that the Soviet output would be doubled or trebled.—Reuter.

QUETTA QUAKE

HONOURS LIST NOW
ISSUED

London, Nov. 19.

In connection with the earthquake at Quetta in May, a number of awards have been made by the King and the Viceroy of India.

The honours include the appointment of Major General Henry Karslake, who was General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Western Command, at the time, to be a Knight Commander of the Order of the Star of India and of Lieutenant Colonel S. G. S. Haughton, Officiating Assistant Director of Medical Services, to be a Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire.

An appeal has been issued in England, signed among others by the Secretary for India, Lord Zetland, Lord Halifax and Sir Samuel Hoare, for funds for a new hospital at Quetta.—British Wireless.

MORE EMPLOYMENT
AT HOMEFACTS REVEALED IN CENSUS

London, Nov. 19.

A census of the insured population carried out in July by the Ministry of Labour shows expanding employment in distributive trades and trades generally catering for personal services to consumers in electrical industry, woodworking trades and commerce and finance. Depressed industries generally are attracting comparatively few entrants.

In Great Britain and North Ireland the number of insured persons between 14 and 64 years of age at the time of the census was 14,002,500, of whom 944,500 were under 16 years.—British Wireless.

Speculation On
New CabinetRADICAL CHANGES
MAY BE DELAYED

London, Nov. 19.

The newspapers continue to speculate on the reorganisation of the government following the General Election, and the suggestion is now made in some quarters that the Prime Minister may decide to make a few changes in the early days of the new Parliament and to postpone reconstruction until some time next year.

In the meantime, Mr. Baldwin, who saw the King this morning, is in consultation with his colleagues. This afternoon he saw Mr. Ramsay MacDonald again and also attended a Privy Council meeting later.

The Premier was also visited by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Lord Halifax, Mr. Runciman and the Chief Government Whip, Captain Margesson.

ORKNEY RESULT

The result of the election in Orkney and Shetland Islands was declared to-day. Major Nevens-peace (Conservative) polled 8,406 votes and was elected. Sir Robert Hamilton (Liberal) polled 6,108. This is a Conservative gain.

With only one result outstanding till next Monday—the Scottish Universities returning three members—the Government supporters in the new House of Commons number 428 and the Opposition 184. Two members ranking as Opposition, however, will not take their seats. They are the National abstentionists elected for Fermanagh and Tyrone, who, by refusing to sit and take the oath, will forfeit their deposits and not be entitled to their salaries as members of Parliament. Allowing for these two, the Government already has a working majority of 246.—British Wireless.

London, Nov. 19.

It is reliably reported that Mr. Mackenzie King, the Premier, is planning to invite President Roosevelt to visit Canada.

If the suggestion results in a formal invitation, Lord Tweedsmuir, the Governor-General of Canada, is expected to issue the invitation. It is also possible that the British Secretary for Dominion Affairs will visit Canada simultaneously.—United Press.

INFANT PRINCE'S
CHRISTENINGKING AND QUEEN AS GODPARENTS

London, Nov. 19.

The King and Queen are to be godfather and godmother to the infant son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent, whose christening takes place to-morrow afternoon in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Bishop of London and Preliminary Percival, will officiate. Others who will stand godfather include the Prince of Wales, Prince Nicholas of Greece and the Duke of Connaught, who will act by proxy.—British Wireless.

CHRISTMAS VICTORY

MUSSOLINI'S NEED TO SPEED UP CAMPAIGN

Rome, Nov. 19.

It is indicated that Signor Mussolini hopes to complete the Ethiopian campaign before Christmas, firstly because of the extraordinary precautions taken to prevent disorder by students staging anti-League demonstrations; secondly because the Grand Fascist Council adjourned till December 18 without issuing drastic decrees and pronouncements.

Politicians foresee intensified efforts to conclude a Franco-Italian-Italian Mediterranean pact, while Marshal Badoglio conducts an extremely speedy campaign on all fronts.

The Italian Government fears that Mr. Cordell Hull's discouraging of exporters from trading with Italy portends an eventual support of the League, since Italy has planned to buy oil, gasoline and metals from the United States.—United Press.

Emperor On To Front

Addis Ababa, Nov. 19.

The Emperor has boarded a plane and it is believed that he is enroute for Dessaye or Harar to assume command.

However, officials said that reports of his movements were forbidden for fear that the Italian bombing squadrons might capture the Emperor.

It is significant, however, that the newspaper correspondents were finally permitted to start for Dessaye, leaving a few hours before the Emperor.

Selassie could direct all the northern armies from Dessaye, assisted by Ras Seyoum, Ras Kassa and Ras Mulgeta.

This would be the supreme test in which warriors still poorly equipped would meet the most modern war machine.

During the Emperor's absence it is expected that his financial adviser, Everette Andrew Colson will figure largely in the Government.

Colson advised the course whereby Ethiopia induced the League to apply sanctions against Italy.—United Press.

Crisis at Hand

London, Nov. 19.

Well informed military opinion believes that the departure of the Emperor by aeroplane from the capital indicates that the biggest battle so far of the campaign, and possibly the decisive arrangement of the war, is now imminent.—United Press.

Ethiopian Movements

Asmara, Nov. 19.

The bloodiest battle on the Northern front will probably be near Makale, since it is indicated that the Ethiopians are preparing a stubborn resistance to the next advance, and possibly even an attack of their own.

Native reports state that a strong Ethiopian column is approaching Scelot, ten miles south of Makale, and it is preparing to attack between Makale and Dola.

A further indication is the extent to which the Italian bombing planes returning here after a raid to-day were riddled with bullets, while the Ethiopians continue their raids behind the lines.

The Ethiopians will evidently attack the eastern end of the Italian front.

Meanwhile the Eritrean Askaris, en route for Tembien, are engaging Ras Seyoum's forces.—United Press.

Ethiopians Raided

Asmara, Nov. 19.

Count Ciano and Signor Mussolini's two sons participated in one of the biggest bombing raids which the Italians have hitherto conducted.

The defences which the Ethiopians are busy constructing in the valleys of the Mai Wafal and Maimest south of Makale, were destroyed and a large quantity of stores set on fire.

Twenty giant Italian bombers left Asmara yesterday and a few hours later sighted the enemy who were estimated to number 15,000.

The bombing planes dived within a hundred feet of the Ethiopians, dropping a hail of two pound bombs and opening up with machine guns.

The enemy scattered but at least a hundred were hit before they could reach cover.

The attack continued for two hours, the Ethiopians replying with anti-aircraft and machine gun fire.

Count Ciano interviewed by Reuter on his return said that his plane was struck by three anti-aircraft shells, and 88 rifle and machine gun bullets. Other planes were struck on an fished Saturday. The replies are similar in form and substance.

Meanwhile draft copies of the British note, which is officially described as of no very great length, is circulating among the fifty-two members of the League Co-ordinating Committee as it is felt that the Italian note calls for co-operation in the matter of a reply.—Reuter.

ITALIAN ECONOMY

Rome, Nov. 19.

New regulations issued to-day forbid the export of goods necessary for internal use, including chemicals required for the manufacture of high-explosives.

Goods for non-sanction countries can be exported as before, subject to the existing clearing agreements. Goods for sanction countries cannot be exported to foreign producers unless the latter open credit accounts in Italy and pay for the goods in advance. Permits for the export of wool, cotton and silk textiles must be obtained from the special national organisations.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION

Political commentators stress the fact that the Fascist Grand Council has announced December 18 as the date of its next meeting. This departure from custom is taken to indicate that Signor Mussolini intends to act in much closer co-operation with the Council than hitherto.

The campaign for the boycott of foreign goods continues, and 130 traders have pledged themselves to support the boycott.

The Archbishops of Messina, Brindisi and Sorrento have issued pastoral letters urging the clergy and people to make every effort to sacrifice and to resist sanctions, while in most theatres throughout Italy actors are addressing the audiences before plays begin urging them to resist sanctions.—Reuter Special.

BRITISH FINANCES

POST OFFICE INCOME
INCREASES

London, Nov. 19.

Exchequer returns show that the total ordinary revenue, excluding self-balancing items, amounts to £371,332,198, compared with £358,378,414 at the corresponding date of 1934. The net receipts from Post Office of £12,150,000 are already in excess of the budget estimate for the whole year.

The total from Customs and Excise at £191,067,000 compares with £186,931,000 for the same period of the last financial year.

Total ordinary expenditure, exclusive of self-balancing items, is £451,525,563, against £431,824,236 at the corresponding date of last year.—British Wireless.

Sixty persons attended Monday night's successful whist drive held at the European Y.M.C.A. The following were the prizewinners: Ladies, 1st, Mrs. Morrison 182; 2nd, Miss Brewin 109; Lowest Score, Mrs. Dewar 132. Gentlemen, 1st, Mr. Fawcett 181; 2nd, Mr. Wright 142. Lowest Score, Mr. Wright 142. Prizes were presented by Mrs. Starling, after which a Knock-out Drive was held to complete the evening's playing.

The following cases of infectious diseases were reported to the local health authorities during the past week:—One case of Small-pox, seven cases of Diphtheria, three cases of Typhoid (one imported), one case of Puerperal Fever with one death, and 45 deaths from Tuberculosis. On Monday one case of Small-pox and three cases of Diphtheria were also reported.

Messrs. Benjamin & Potts received the following rates from their Manila Agents this morning: Benguet Consols, 10.20 buyers and 10.60 sellers; Antamoka, 76 buyers and 78 sellers; Baguio Golds, 13½ buyers and 14½ sellers.

1,000 Ethiopians Killed

Rome, Nov. 19.

It is officially announced that three Italians were wounded in the bombing raid.

The aeroplanes dropped six tons of bombs and it is semi-officially estimated that a thousand Ethiopians were killed.—Reuter.

SWEEPING BADMINTON WIN FOR RECREIO "B"

DRAW FIRST BLOOD IN MEN'S DOUBLES DIV.

S. AND S. HOME OUTPLAYED

EFFECTIVE COMBINATION OF L.A. AND P.M. SILVA

As generally expected the Recreio "B" drew first blood in the season's campaign for the men's doubles championship of the Badminton League when they met the Sailors and Soldiers' Home last night.

The Portuguese made a clean sweep of the board, winning all nine games with an aggregate of 192 points against 60.

There were some curious fluctuations in form. L. C. Gibbons and C. Hall, second string in the losing team carried N. Beltrao and A. J. Basto to 24-23 before admitting defeat, yet lost to L. A. and A. M. Silva by 21-1.

It was the Silva combination who also accounted for A. Edwards and W. Merrett for the loss of one point after the same pair had taken ten points from Xavier and Barros and nine from Beltrao and Basto.

The Silvas in fact won their three games with the loss of only eight points—an outstanding achievement.

Detailed scores follow.

N. Beltrao and A. J. Basto (Recreio) beat D. Waglan and Yang Chan 21-3 beat L. C. Gibbons and C. Hall 24-23
beat A. Edwards and W. Merrett 21-9
L. A. Silva and A. M. Silva (Recreio) beat Waglan and Chan 21-6
beat Gibbons and Hall 21-1
beat Edwards and Merrett 21-1

NO TEAM YET

KOWLOON TONG'S QUANDARY

REQUIRE ANOTHER LADY PLAYER

Kowloon Tong are still in a quandary concerning their mixed doubles badminton team. Miss Mackenzie is not available to play against the Sailors and Soldiers' Home on Friday, and although, in an endeavour to avoid postponement, strenuous efforts have been made to fill her place, the club has so far been unsuccessful.

Until this morning there was every indication that it would be possible to turn out a team, but these hopes have been dashed by the inability of the proposed substitute to play.

Kowloon Tong intend to pursue their efforts to secure another lady player, and in view of this a final decision may not be reached until to-morrow morning. In the event of failure, there are several alternatives.

The S. and S. Home can either agree to a postponement, or Kowloon Tong can play with two pairs and concede three games, or they can concede the whole match and with it the league points.

I think too, according to the rules, in the event of the teams being unable mutually to agree to a postponement and the defaulting team is satisfied that it has justifiable reason for a postponement, it can appeal to the Association for jurisdiction.

ST. ANDREW'S TEAM

I must apologise for inadvertently announcing in yesterday's issue that the men's doubles match between St. Andrew's "B" and the C.R.C. was scheduled for to-morrow. The match is being played this evening at St. Andrew's, and the composition of the home team has now been finally settled.

The third pair will consist of Dr. Matthews and S.A. Broadbridge, the full team being: A.S. Bliss and M. Well; R. Brooks and C. Angus; Dr. Matthews and S.A. Broadbridge.

Kowloon Tong's team to meet St. John's this evening has now been completed and will be:

G. A. White and E. A. Gray; P. C. Leung and Peter Sin (or K. K. Wong); K. H. Chan and K. H. Wong.

CANADIAN RECRUITS FOR BRITISH HOCKEY TEAMS

With many recruits gleaned from Canadian amateur hockey ranks, British ice hockey teams are preparing for a monster season. Wembley (London) teams are already rounding into shape for the schedule which will pit them against other British teams and possibly some European squads. Here are some new additions to Wembley Lions and Wembley Canadians, both popular metropolitan teams, in practice on the ice of the Empire Pool at Wembley Stadium. A major showdown is impending on the amateur status of British teams, with recruits threatened with a ban by the ruling body. So far the flow of new material has not been checked.

Lord Burghley's Appointment

TO BE PRESIDENT OF A.A.A.

One of the greatest of all track hurdlers, Lord Burghley, will in a few months be holding office as president of the Amateur Athletic Association.

This was the surprising news disclosed by the governing body of British athletics during the week-end. It follows closely on the decision of 80-year-old Lord Desborough to resign the post.

Lord Burghley has yet to be elected, but there is not the slightest doubt about that. He has been unanimously nominated by the A.A.A. General Committee, and at the annual meeting next March one can imagine a forest of approving hands shooting up when the question is put to the vote.

Lord Burghley, a staunch lover of athletics and a top-class exponent of it, is a man of widespread popularity, admired by officials and competitors alike.

SUPREME

Lord Burghley was a good mixer when he was in the game actively, with a friendly handshake and a smile for any competitor.

In addition to which he naturally commanded considerable hero-worship because of his splendid talents. When at his best there was none to touch him over the 440 yards low hurdles, as he was not only a brilliant hurdler but an uncommonly good quarter-miler.

Champion of Britain for several years, he set the seal on his career by winning the Olympic 400 metres hurdles at Amsterdam, beating the crack Americans, Cuhel and Taylor.

Lord Burghley will be the fifth A.A.A. president and the youngest ever to take office. In fact, it is doubtful whether any national sports body at any time has had one so young at its head.

For Lord Burghley was 30 last February.

FANTASTIC DOUBLE ODDS

18,893 TO ONE

Record Bets On The Cambridgeshire

London, Oct. 31.

1 Commander III. (Hawcroft) 28-1
2 Man's Pal (W. Wing) 100-1
3 Finalist (S. Wragg) 6-1
One of the heaviest betting races within memory was won by a 28 to 1 chance when Commander III, a French-bred horse trained at Newmarket, won the Cambridgeshire Stakes there yesterday—and one of the oldest punters in London brought off the Autumn Double at odds of 18,893 to 1.

It is believed that nearly £1,000,000 was won and lost on the race. The big backers had left the winner almost severely alone, but many small bettors had supported Commander III, because he finished second in the same race last year.

His trainer, Mr. Basil Briscoe, is part owner of the horse with Mr. G. R. C. Foster, and Mr. Briscoe had been conducting an election campaign for his brother, Captain R. G. Briscoe, retiring Conservative M.P. for Cambridge-shire, who is on his way from New Zealand to fight the seat again.

"At all the meetings at which I have spoken on my brother's behalf," said Mr. Briscoe last night, "I have told the people that they must back Commander III."

Only in a few cases was the double with Near Relation, winner of the Cesarewitch, named by punters, one of these being Mr. Fred Bishop, who is 89, and three fellow members of the Eccentric Club.

They wagered half a crown on the two horses. As a result, the

Aston Villa Team Manager Resigns

McMULLAN THROWS UP JOB

(By Arbiter)

London, Oct. 31.
The Aston Villa football club announced yesterday that Mr. James McMullan, team manager, has resigned.

The Villa, original members of the Football League, which was formed in 1888 largely through their initiative, are now second from the bottom of the First Division.

Mr. McMullan, former captain of Manchester City and a distinguished Scottish international, was appointed team manager in May 1934, having previously held an official position with Oldham.

I understand that the Villa players have been placed under the control of Frank Barson—former Aston Villa centre half who returned to the club at the beginning of the season to take charge of the "colts"—and that no change in this arrangement is likely.

Mr. W. J. Smith, the club's secretary, told me yesterday that Barson accompanied the side to Leeds on Saturday—where they lost 4-2—and that his aim will be to improve the men's team work.

Every effort is being made to obtain new players, but in almost all cases considered the club has been asked to pay what are termed extravagant transfer fees.

I am able to state that reports that several Aston Villa players have been offered for transfer are incorrect. Waring, the centre forward, being the only one.

four friends divide £2,361 14s. This means that for a wager of 75s., each of them gets about £30, or odds of 18,893 to 1.

"I don't suppose there has ever been a bet won at such odds," said Mr. Bishop last night. "I must be one of the oldest punters in London, and I certainly don't recall such a win."

This was how he explained it: "Suppose," he said, "the centre half is covering the opposing centre forward twenty yards from goal and the two backs are behind. Nine times out of ten the centre half will get the ball, and he will move half a dozen yards forward with it. At once the two backs move up with him in support, and unless the centre forward also advances—and he rarely does—he is bound to be off-side in the event of the ball being returned."

"When I put this move into practice at Hull it was not with the object of throwing the opposition off-side. My idea was simply to create a general system of attack and to give the side the initiative."

"I see that Preston North End are now described as the off-side specialists, but Mr. James Taylor has told me that they have simply adopted the principle I introduced."

OFFSIDE TRAP SHOULD BE AN ATTACKING MOVE

FAMOUS EX-FOOTBALLER GIVES HIS VIEWS

(By Arbiter)

If the old style football were to be brought back just for one afternoon I wonder if it would be recognised.

I would at once urge that the game as it was played before the alteration of the off-side rule should be demonstrated if there were any possibility of the authorities relaxing the regulations to permit it.

It would be an enlightening entertainment for present-day enthusiasts who believe that they live in the best of all football worlds and who never saw or have forgotten how the game used to be played.

Even in the case of those with long memories the game has changed to a greater extent than is probably realised.

Yesterday while I was discussing with Mr. William McCracken the chance of the old off-side manoeuvre being brought back generally, he pointed to a change which I had not noticed—but of which I had not appreciated the significance.

"In my playing days with Newcastle United," Mr. McCracken said, "the defence always dictated an attacking policy whereas to-day the forwards are largely allowed to dominate the defence."

In explanation of this he pointed to the centre forward lying far up the field as the spearhead of the attack. No matter how far he advanced, the opposing centre half moved with him and the two backs retreated still farther.

"I do not think we should have permitted this," Mr. McCracken remarked. "I used to say, 'If any windows are to be broken, let it be in the other fellow's backyard,' and I think we should have moved up to drive the centre forward back or left him in an off-side position."

In the view of Mr. McCracken the off-side trap is not, or should not be, set for defensive purposes. It comes about through a general attacking policy.

This was how he explained it: "Suppose," he said, "the centre half is covering the opposing centre forward twenty yards from goal and the two backs are behind. Nine times out of ten the centre half will get the ball, and he will move half a dozen yards forward with it. At once the two backs move up with him in support, and unless the centre forward also advances—and he rarely does—he is bound to be off-side in the event of the ball being returned."

"When I put this move into practice at Hull it was not with the object of throwing the opposition off-side. My idea was simply to create a general system of attack and to give the side the initiative."

"I see that Preston North End are now described as the off-side specialists, but Mr. James Taylor has told me that they have simply adopted the principle I introduced."

ROUSING VICTORY OVER EDDIE PHILLIPS

ENTERPRISE AND DASH EARN RIGHT TO MEET PETERSEN

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

London, Oct. 26.

Len Harvey can examine his entire thirteen years of fighting and fail to cite a smarter or more impressive performance than he gave in his home town of Plymouth on Saturday night in outboxing, and often outclassing, his London challenger, Eddie Phillips.

The man is an enigma. Notorious for his spoiling defensive boxing, Harvey, at the age of 28, showed that when he likes he can be a highly entertaining and brilliant fighter. Throughout the 16 rounds there was not the suspicion of a hold or a pull, or anything that is not permitted by the book.

It was boxing of a delightful kind. Never in his life has Harvey fought with greater freedom, finer enterprise, or more dash. Wonderfully fast, his brain was working a second faster than his opponent's all through the fight. Phillips found himself out-thought, and consequently outpaced, by a man who gave no rest—who was accurate and dangerous when attacking and almost as deadly with his counter-blows when on the retreat.

MAN OF COURAGE

I reckoned Phillips to win the ninth round and take a share of four others. The others Harvey simply galloped away with by masterly left hook punching and hammering rights to the jaw—which Phillips took in a style which must stamp him for ever as a man of courage and determination.

Phillips has never fought better, yet he lost the decision by a crushing margin. Phillips, with his long left, stabbed away in great style at Harvey's mouth, pulling his lips, and at one stage causing him to go very tired. But back came Harvey as lively as a cricket in the closing rounds to set the seal on the dazzling work of the first part of the fight.

Harvey was cheekily confident. He would bluff Phillips with left-hand feints and then nail him with a right to the chin. He would play for the body with his right and quite unexpectedly whip up a left hook to knock Phillips's head back.

DEFENSIVE HITTING

And nothing better has been seen in British boxing for years than Harvey's defensive hitting—very nearly a lost art these days. A man who while retreating can slip, lean, blow and smash home counter-hits without losing balance has class. Harvey was doing that in round after round, and Phillips hardly knew what it was all about.

It was a kind of aggressive defence, paradoxical though the term may be. But there were periods when Harvey also went boldly forward to attack the bigger man. In the eleventh round he placed a succession of splendidly aimed blows in Phillips's jaw and definitely had him on the verge of a knock-out.

Phillips saved himself by a desperate, swinging both gloves at random and with a viciousness that would have made it dangerous for Harvey to have pressed home his advantage.

The left-hand punching of both men was excellent, and there were times when Phillips knocked Harvey badly with right-hand shots. But defensively there was no comparison between them. Phillips must have missed more times than he would do in the course of three ordinary fights, and he was absolutely unable to check Harvey's shrewd counter-punching.

Phillips finished the struggle with cuts under both his eyes, but it can truly be said of him that he surpassed himself in defeat. As for Harvey, he is ready once again for Jack Petersen, which delighted a 7,000 crowd, is reproduced by Harvey it will not be odds against him regaining the heavy-weight championship.

DEFEATS MENZEL

Koshien, Nov. 18.

Jiro Yamagishi to-day placed himself in the front ranks of tennis players by defeating Roderick Menzel, a giant member of the Czechoslovakian Davis Cup team and the world's seventh best player, in three straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1. Yamagishi's victory came in the finals of the All-Japan hard court championships. Last summer, playing for Japan in the Davis Cup matches, the Japanese player lost to Menzel.

Yesterday Yamagishi, pairing with Murakami, a Keio University youngster, completed the rout of the Czechoslovakian visitors, Menzel and Hecht, by annexing the doubles championship in five sets. After losing the first two sets to two visitors, the Japanese team rallied to win the next three sets and the match, 2-6, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

TO PLAY CRICKET AS A GAME

Ideal Of M.C.C. Touring Team In Australia

Perth, W. Australia, Oct. 25.

The M.C.C. cricket team who are touring Australia and New Zealand had the novel experience of being welcomed by another touring team—the Australian side for South Africa—when they arrived here to-day.

The Australian team, captained by Victor Richardson, were playing in a farewell match against Western Australia, and before to-day's play was begun the Australians went to the wharf to greet the English players.

E. B. T. Holmes's men all looked thoroughly fit, and their jovial spirits created a good impression on those who welcomed them.

The Englishmen were anxious to get down to practice and start a happy tour in which it is sincerely hoped that controversial topics will be taboo.

At a civic reception given to the M.C.C. team Colonel Sir William Robert Champion, a former Governor of Western Australia, who came over on the same boat as the team, said:

"The English team will play the game of cricket as a game. They are probably one of the best fielding sides to visit Australia. When set they won't dally but hit the ball hard."

TRAVEL TALK

MISS BROWN AD- DRESSES ROTARIANS

"Ladies Day" at the Hongkong Rotary Club weekly dinner, held at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden, yesterday, was largely attended, and listeners were treated to a delightful talk given by Miss Phyllis Brown, M.B.E., B.A., of the staff of the Central British School, who spoke on "Hongkong to England by air in Twelve Days at a cost of $65." The chair was occupied by Professor L. Forster, President.

Among the guests present were noticed Lady Shenton, Lieut-Col. H. B. L. Dowbiggin and Miss Dowbiggin, Major and Mrs. H. St. G. Theys, Mrs. M. K. Lo, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Cox, Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. R. Duncan, Miss P. Tasary, Mrs. Ho Leung, Mrs. Ho Ki and Miss H. Kotewall.

The Chairman: I will dispense with the formality of asking you to introduce your guests and would like to extend a very cordial welcome to all the visitors, especially the ladies who are gracing our tables to-day. We would, of course, like to have more of these functions, but one of the difficulties is to find lady speakers. I managed to persuade Miss Phyllis Brown to address us to-day. Miss Brown is a resident of the Colony and is in the Government education service. She is one of those enterprising young women who make use of their long vacations and tour different parts of the world. (Applause).

Miss Brown said, in part:-This is an account of my journey from Hongkong to London via Siberia by air and train this summer, completed in twelve days at a cost of about $65. Now that a regular passenger service is in operation between the Far East and Europe the only thing which prevents ordinary people from paying frequent visits to England is the prohibitive price of long distance flying. Last year I travelled on the Trans-Siberian railway, taking sixteen days in transit from Hongkong to London. It occurred to me at the time that if I could speed up part of the journey by flying I could fit a return trip into two months at a much lower cost than that of going by boat to Singapore and flying from there to London, and taking about the same time, thus combining economy with speed.

Finally I left Hongkong early on a Saturday morning and reached Croydon at 10.45 p.m. a week the following Thursday exactly according to schedule.

China Air Service

I had intended to fly from Canton to Peiping, but owing to the floods in Hankow the Eurasia Flying company cancelled this service just two days before I was to leave, so that I had to alter my plans and fly between Shanghai and Tientsin instead. I could have left a day later and flown from Canton to Shanghai, but this would have cost $10 more and I should have caught the same connection in Shanghai. I only mention this to show that regular services exist by which it is possible to reach England in eleven days or under for about $75.

Saturday morning early I left Hongkong by boat; Monday morning arrived Shanghai—tourist class fare $38 on return reduced to about $50; 6.30 a.m. on Tuesday left Shanghai by air and arrived at Tientsin at 11.45 a.m.—fare $120 Shanghai, i.e., half return fare of about $240 Shanghai; 11.55 p.m. departed Tientsin by train arriving at Harbin at 6.30 a.m. Thursday—fare $15 Tientsin and 30 Manchukuo yen, first class travel by night and second concession by day.

At 9.50 a.m. the same day, I departed from Harbin by air, arriving at Manchouli 2.55 p.m.—fare 108 Manchukuo yen just over $5; at 3.47 p.m. Thursday we departed from Manchouli by train arriving at Moscow about midnight the following Wednesday. At 8 a.m. the next day we departed from Moscow by air arriving at Croydon at 10.45 p.m.—15 hours flying being done all in the one day owing to gaining two hours flying westward—fare $21.3s., i.e., half return fare of $42.6s.

The prices of the Manchukuo flying service and steamer from Shanghai to Hongkong were reduced by 20 or 30 per cent. on the return trip but the exchange was not quite so much in my favour—fares came to under $50.

The Return Journey

I followed the same route on my return except that I flew from Harbin to Mukden instead of between Manchouli and Harbin. It is on this part of the trip that it is necessary to keep one's wits about one, and alternative air and train and steamer routes in mind, in case trains are late or weather conditions unfavourable for flying. Both these things happened to me and I had to make some changes and my train travel by night and air travel by day enabled me to catch important connections. As the Trans-Siberian train goes only twice a week, missing this might have meant a delay of four days.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TRADE

IMPORTANT DISCUSSIONS IN LONDON

London, Nov. 19. Discussions of a preliminary nature have, it is understood, been taking place in London with the view to developing Anglo-Soviet trade relations and more particularly to stimulating Russian purchases of goods in Britain.

At present the trade balance between Britain and Russia is heavily in Russia's favour. In the first nine months of the current year British imports to Russia amounted to £13,800,000 against £12,700,000 in 1934, while British exports to Russia fell from £2,800,000 to £2,700,000.

It is suggested that British exports would be stimulated if Russia could raise long term loans here for capital development purposes and it is on these lines that the investigations have been proceeding.

One of the chief difficulties barring the way to long-term loans, however, is the default of the Soviet Government on the Tzarist debts and the possibility of arranging a settlement of their old debts is now, it is understood, receiving the attention of various interested parties who have been consulted during the discussions.

No official announcement regarding the present discussions has been made.—British Wireless.

though a person undaunted by discomfort could take the daily train to China and connect with the Vladivostok express and so avoid this. About luggage I took 15 kilograms (about 30 lbs.), this being the limit allowed free in aeroplanes in China and Europe. In the U.S.S.R. 30 kilograms is permitted and in Manchukuo only ten, so there I had to pay excess. I had a special wardrobe suitcase designed in rattan which was convenient if not impressive; in fact I was a little ashamed of its aristocratic appearance before the journey was over, when its soiled cover and broken handle lessened my pride in its originality of design.

With regard to booking, this can be done en route and railway telegrams can be sent when one is reasonably sure of a connection. Thomas Cook's obtained my berth to Shanghai, and the rest I did myself as I went along.

Stay in Moscow

The speaker then went on to describe passports and amusing incidents on the journey. She spent a night at the New Moscow Hotel—the cheapest of the tourist ones patronized by University students of proletarian sympathies, the National and Metropole Hotels being the ones catering for the more bourgeois and aristocratic type. It was International Youth day and all was prepared for a demonstration in the Red Square of the young people under 25, of all nations to be reviewed by Stalin. Huge red notices in Russian, English, French and Chinese were illuminated by flashlight—"Long live the 21st. International youth day—the day of Militant Demonstration of the youth of all countries against Fascism and war, for Peace and Socialism."

In conclusion, Miss Brown said that night flying was quite lovely, and as they flew over the Thames the illuminations on the pier and seafront at Southend looked very gay and homely. Croydon was deserted and gloomy at 11 p.m.—one's relations are not allowed inside as once some bullion left lying about was carried off by some enterprising robbers. She complained to one of the officials that it was like being let out of prison!

However, the speaker was soon speeding along the road to an English countryside in August, and she could scarcely believe she was truly there!

Speaker Thanked

In thanking Miss Brown on behalf of those present for her very interesting and instructive address, Professor W. Brown said it seemed to him the way to go by air is to go half the way by rail! He had travelled from England to Bangkok by air at a cost of £130. Miss Brown's estimate of $65 was perhaps optimistic and would never go past the finance committee of the Hongkong University. The cost of wear and tear of the soul and body would be about $501 (Laughter). Miss Brown had worthily maintained the traditions of the clan Brown by travelling a lot.

Professor Brown mentioned that he once had the opportunity of staying in Moscow for 24 hours. There he visited the "marriage and divorce shop." One was taken through a door to a waiting room with illustrated papers. Marriages were solemnised in about six or seven minutes, and divorces completed in about ten minutes. (Laughter).

The Chairman expressed thanks to Mr. J. P. Sherry and Mr. W. O. Clark of the Hongkong Telephone Company, for installing loud speakers at the meeting.

SANITARY BOARD

LEPROSY AND MALARIA QUESTIONS

Questions regarding leprosy and malaria in the Colony were asked by the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, pursuant to notice, at the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday afternoon. In the course of the Government replies, it was stated that a golf course and recreation ground may be formed at Little Hongkong by private enterprise.

Mr. W. J. Carrie, President of the Board, was in the chair, others present being the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson, the Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, Dr. G. W. Pope, Mr. L. C. F. Bollamy, Dr. R. A. de Castro Baeto, Dr. Li Shu-fan, Mr. C. J. Roe (Secretary) and Mr. Im Ping-tseung (Assistant Secretary).

On the question of leprosy, the Hon. Mr. Lo asked:

(1) Will the H.S.D. be good enough to ascertain from the proper authority and inform this Board as to whether or not it is a fact that lepers are being or have been kept at the Infectious Hospital at Kennedy Town?

Mr. Carrie: I am indebted to the Honourable Director of Medical and Sanitary Services for the information enabling me to give the following replies:

Lepers are segregated at the Infectious Diseases Hospital (Tung Wah Hospital Branch) Kennedy Town.

Mr. Lo: (ii) What is the number of such lepers kept during 1935?

Mr. Carrie: Thirty-five were treated during 1933. The number at present under treatment is seven males and six females.

Mr. Lo: (iii) Are such lepers medically attended to, and if so, what is the nature of the medical treatment given?

Mr. Carrie: The lepers are fed by the Tung Wah Hospital Committee at Government expense and are treated by the Government Medical Officer in charge of the Infectious Diseases Hospital. They receive bi-weekly injections of atlepid and any other treatment that appears necessary.

Malaria Menace

Regarding malaria, the Hon. Mr. Lo asked:

Will the H.S.D. be kind enough to ascertain from Government and inform the Board as follows:

(1) Is Government aware that cases of malaria, including malignant malaria, are still prevalent in various residential districts on the island, such as Shouson Hill, Tyiam, Repulse Bay and Shek-O?

Mr. Carrie: Cases of malaria have been reported from Shouson Hill and Tai Tam Tuk but the Malariaologist has no information regarding recent cases at Shek-O or the residential area of Repulse Bay.

Mr. Lo: (ii) What steps have actually been taken or are contemplated for eradicating or combating this disease in such areas?

Mr. Carrie: The measures taken to eradicate and combat this disease in those areas are the usual ones of oiling and draining.

Mr. Lo: (iii) Is it a fact that certain paddy fields and vegetable gardens in close proximity to Shouson Hill district have been resumed by Government?

Mr. Carrie: Yes.

Mr. Lo: (iv) If so, were such fields resumed in order that their cultivation by the villagers might be discontinued, thereby preventing such stagnant water from being breeding grounds for mosquitoes?

Mr. Carrie: Yes.

Mr. Lo: (v) When were such fields and gardens resumed?

Mr. Carrie: The resumption took place on various dates around November 1934.

Still Cultivated

Mr. Lo: (vi) Is it a fact that in spite of such resumption such fields and gardens are still being cultivated, and if so, what steps do Government propose to take in order to achieve the object of such resumption?

Mr. Carrie: It is true that since the resumptions cultivation of the fields and gardens is still going on. The land is now held on permit terminable at short notice. For various reasons arising from the present depression it has not been found immediately practicable to deal with the land in the way originally proposed, and the Malariaologist advised that it was safer from the point of view of malaria danger to allow cultivation to continue under supervision than that the land should revert to jungle. The Government is now investigating the possibility of converting this area into a golf course and recreation ground by private enterprise.

Preparing For The FutureST. JOHN AMBULANCE
MOCK "GAS" RAID
DRILL AT HOME

Residents in scores of East-end flats watched nurses in gas-masks giving first aid recently to gas-poisoned "victims" in a smoke-filled yard.

It was a striking demonstration, organised by the London Division of the St. John Ambulance Brigade to test the efficiency of its nurses, and it gave the spectators some idea of what they must expect in the case of an enemy air raid, and showed them how the casualties would be dealt with.

A siren announced the beginning of the raid, and a few seconds later exploding smoke bombs filled the yard with drifting yellow smoke, which surrounded a number of boys playing football. Fourteen of them fell to the ground, and within a few moments nurses wearing gas-masks and gloves, and carrying spare gas-masks, rushed on to the scene with stretchers.

The spare masks were quickly fitted on to the victims, who, after first-aid treatment had been given, were carried into a gas-tight and splinter-proof air-post.

So realistic were these operations that one woman spectator rushed out of the yard shouting, "I can't stand it! I can't stand it!"

Inside the air-post the "victims" were quickly stripped of all their clothing, which was sent through to a gas purifying plant, while the "casualties" themselves were also scrubbed in a bath of disinfectant to rid their skins of any clinging gas.

Those whose lungs had been affected were treated with oxygen and gas anti-dotes, while "wounds" were washed and dressed.

They were then passed through the clothing store, where they were dressed and then sent either to their homes or to hospitals for further treatment.

This was the most complete demonstration which has yet been given of the way in which first-aid work would be carried out in the event of enemy air attack, and it was watched by Major H. B. F. Dixon, M.C., R.A.M.C., on behalf of the War Office, who complimented the nurses on the way they had carried out their work.

Arrangements have already been made by the St. John Ambulance Brigade, working in conjunction with the Home Office, to set up a large number of these first-aid posts all over the London area.

GARBO FILM RECEIVES
AWARD

"ANNA KARENINA," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer photoplay co-starring Greta Garbo and Fredric March, has been awarded first prize, consisting of an artistic loving cup, donated by Premier Benito Mussolini, for the best non-Italian film shown at the third biennial motion picture exhibit at Venice. The committee's verdict characterized "Anna Karenina" as a perfect work of art.

The official communique announcing the award said:

"The excellent interpretation of Greta Garbo, joined with the efficacious and human translation into images of Tolstol's masterpiece, makes of this film a work of undoubtedly artistic value."

Presentation of the Mussolini Cup will be made by the Italian Consul Augusto Russo to Louis B. Mayer and Clarence Brown at a reception in Hollywood.

"Anna Karenina" was released in America recently and received favourable criticism as a mature version of Tolstol's novel. The picture was directed by Clarence Brown under the production supervision of David O. Selznick. The script was prepared by Clemence Dane and Salka Viertel.

Meanwhile, the film is breaking records throughout America. It is being held over for a third week by popular demand at the 5,000-seat Capitol Theatre, Broadway. Records established by "China Seas" another smash hit, were broken in Harrisburg, Boston, New Haven, and Springfield, and were equalled in Bridgeport, Pittsburgh, Reading, and various other key cities.

In almost every other situation, "Anna Karenina" attendance exceeded "The Painted Veil," which was another great Garbo box-office success.

CHANGED THE COURSE OF
SELASSIE'S LIFEBUT FRENCH CHEF
HAS ONE REGRET

His Lovely Kitchen May Be in Danger

There is a Frenchman now in London who once altered the course of the Emperor of Abyssinia's life. For over a year he was chef to Ras Tafari (as the Emperor was before his coronation in 1928) in the palace of Addis Ababa—the first, and at that time the only, European chef in the country.

A few days ago this man, M. Henri Chambard, now chef of a London restaurant, told London newspapermen how, when working in a Paris restaurant, he first attracted Ras Tafari's attention by serving him with foie gras in port wine sauce with truffles.

"He sent his secretary to me and asked me whether I could come out to Addis Ababa as his chef. I took the opportunity and arrived at the capital with my wife early in 1927," said Mr. Chambard.

"But what did I find when I arrived? Nothing. No real stove; a tiny kitchen with a window to let the smoke out; no modern cooking equipment at all. I nearly returned at once!"

"Within a few months I had installed an up-to-date kitchen and a refrigerator in the palace, and I collected a very fine cellar of wines. Unlimited money was given me, and I was able to get some of the 'old Tokay' that belonged to Franz Josef of Austria."

"There was always plenty of meat in Addis Ababa, but very few vegetables; potatoes there were, of course, but very few green vegetables like peas and spinach."

14-Course Lunch

"It was quite a usual thing for 15 oxen or sheep to be killed for one banquet, and they were always eaten the same day. It was on account of the meat-eating that twice a week the Emperor starved himself and ate nothing but a little salad and some fish."

M. Chambard had the tremendous task of preparing all the banquets during the week of coronation celebrations in 1928. He still has the menu of one lunch—it has 14 courses!

"But I had to leave finally," M. Chambard added regretfully. "I was quite happy to stay, but my wife found Addis Ababa very lonely. The Emperor even offered me a 30-year contract and as much money as I wished to be deposited in a French bank. But I left for Paris in 1928 and then on to London."

"It will be a great pity if anything ever happens to the lovely kitchen I installed," M. Chambard sighed.

LAST VOYAGE

Before sixty-five-old James Herrivan set out at sea from Gortelton for a fishing trip in the drifter Boy Ray his wife begged him not to go.

He promised her that it would be his last voyage.

While the Boy Ray's nets were being hauled in about twenty miles out to sea on the following morning Herrivan's leg caught in the hauling rope and he was thrown overboard.

The crew got him back and cut adrift valuable nets to rush back to port. But Herrivan died on the way.

STAVISKY
WIDOW
ON TRIALLAW SAYS TWENTY FRENCHMEN
CAN DO WRONGBEWILDERED JURY IN
STAVISKY TRIALSREVELATIONS MAY SHAKE FRANCE
TO ITS FOUNDATION.

Paris, Nov. 10.

After nearly two years of investigation and bitter public controversy, marked by the riots of February 6, 1934, and the overthrow of two governments, twenty persons indicted in the Stavisky affair are now on trial before the Assizes Court of the Department of the Seine.

The trial is one of the biggest France has ever seen, with the courtroom jammed to capacity with hundreds of defendants, lawyers, witnesses, civil parties to the accusation, newspapermen and photographers. Disappointed crowds milled about the corridors of the sombre Palais de Justice vainly seeking entry, and were held in check by hundreds of republican guards.

When presiding Judge Charles Barnaud brought down his gavel this morning he opened a labyrinthian tangle of political and financial testimony which is expected to take at least a month before a bewildered jury.

The twelve men who must form their judgments from the cross-questioning of defendants and witnesses by the astute Assizes Justices and the scores of opposing lawyers have been notified that their decisions must be on the answers to no less than 1,956 questions.

Tons of documents, giving all the tangled ramifications of Sacha Stavisky's colossal swindles, which were disclosed after the death of the super-crook on January 8, 1934, must be waded through to reach the verdict. And even at that, only two of Stavisky's many frauds will be directly invoked, the scores of others being brought in merely on "information."

Biggest Since Dreyfus

Not since the Dreyfus case has France been so torn by a great "affaire," and not since the Panama Canal scandal have so many public men been either directly involved or suspected of complicity in fraud.

Some of the twenty defendants have waited in prison nearly two years before the far-reaching inquiry was brought to an end. Others, after months of waiting, secured their liberty on bail.

One of the latter is the only woman in the case—beautiful Ariette Stavisky, widow of the master-crook, who spent almost a year in the Petite Roquette prison before she was released and allowed to resume, as obscure, a life as possible in the southwest corner of Paris with her two children, who still have no notion of the scandal involving their name.

On the dock with her, flanked by gendarmes, are the once respected mayor of Bayonne, Joseph Garat; former deputy Gaston Bonaure; ex-editors Albert Dubarry, Pierre Darius and Camille Aymard; lawyers, businessmen, a former general, and Stavisky's lieutenants. The charges against them range from fraud and forgery to receiving stolen goods, and are based on Stavisky's swindles through the fraudulent issuance of bonds on the municipal pawnshop at Bayonne and before that at Orleans.

His machinations concerning worthless Hungarian bonds and his so-called "public works" company will be invoked only indirectly.

Chief prosecutor is Procureur General Fernand Reux, and he is assisted by Avocats Generaux L. Gaudel and G. Cassagnau.

The full list of accused, given in the order of their alleged guilt, according to the indictments drawn up by the examining magistrate, is as follows:

1. Gustave Tisser, comptroller of the municipal pawnshop of Bayonne, accused of fraud, making false entries in the organization books, and issuing bonds on fake jewelry.
2. Joseph Garat, mayor of Bayonne, charged with fraud and complicity in swindles; accused of instructing Tisser to make fraudulent records; charged with receiving 400,000 francs from Stavisky.
3. Henri Cohen, jewelry appraiser, charged with fraud and complicity, giving false estimates on jewels pawned at Bayonne.
4. Raoul Desbrosses, Stavisky aide, charged with issuing bonds not registered in the Bayonne pawnshop accounts.
5. Vincent Sigoin, ex-police inspector, charged with being a go-between and pledging more than 20,000,000 francs in fake jewels.
6. Paul Guethin, insurance company executive, charged with fraud and complicity in his company and taking a personal commission.
7. Albert Dubarry, ex-editor of the newspaper Voltaire, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained and with intervening at the Ministry of Public Works in Stavisky's behalf.
8. Gaston Bonaure, former deputy, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained, amounting to 630,000 francs. He claims Stavisky paid this as lawyer's fees.
9. Georges Gautier, lawyer, charged with receiving 70,000 francs fraudulently obtained when he acted as lawyer for Stavisky.
10. Guibaud Ribaud, another Stavisky lawyer, same charge; also accused of making certain pay-offs and establishing contacts in high places.
11. Pierre Darious, editor of the weekly Je et Ours, charged with receiving 100,000 francs from Stavisky for ending a campaign against the Bayonne racket.
12. Paul Levy, editor of "Au Ecouteur," and the Info Report. Charged with receiving 300,000 francs from Stavisky for advertising in the Report, after which statements about Stavisky were published in Aux Ecouteurs.
13. Ariette Simon Stavisky, charged; receiving fraudulently obtained money; accused of full knowledge of Stavisky's swindles.
14. Henri Depardon, charged with accepting 152,000 francs in fraudulently obtained money, and with being Stavisky accountant and paying teller who handled more than 60,000,000 francs.
15. Gilbert Romagnan, Stavisky's right hand man; receiving stolen money; generally adding the swindler for many years.
16. Henri Hayotte, theatre director, charged with being one of Stavisky's principal lieutenants who always accompanied him in his travels; charged: complicity in fraud, receiving stolen money.
17. Emile Farault, jewelry appraiser at Orleans, charged with valuing fake emeralds for Hayotte.
18. Bardi de Fourton, former general, charged with using false documents in connection with the Orleans pawnshop, and with being on Stavisky's board of directors for other enterprises.
19. Georges Hatot, participated in pledging some of Stavisky's fake emeralds.
20. Camille Aymard, former editor-in-chief of the daily Liberte, charged with receiving money fraudulently obtained. — United Press.

CENSUS BY
DICTATORGUNS TO SIGNAL
FREEDOM

Constantinople, Nov. 1. MILLIONS of Turks—and foreign residents—are confined to their homes to-day. They must not leave until the boom of a gun in every locality announces that the national census is over.

This is the second census since the advent of Kemal's regime.

Fines Or Prison
The streets are almost deserted except for policemen. Reinforced by 3,000 gendarmes, the police inquire of any chance passer-by—"Where is your permit to circulate?"

Only census officials, doctors, midwives and journalists are likely to be found in possession of these permits, and anyone else at large may expect a fine or imprisonment.

All shops, restaurants, clubs and places of amusement are closed. All forms of transport are suspended.

Constantinople's streets and public places might have been abandoned owing to the ravages of a deadly plague. But from inside the houses issued the sounds of radio-sets and gramophones. Young Turkey is evidently consoling itself with jazz.

The day's work of every inhabitant of Turkey will be answering 16 questions on special forms. Some will find it a difficult day, for the last census, taken in 1927, showed that only nine per cent. of the inhabitants could read and write.

Turkey then had 14,000,000 people, of whom 52 per cent. were women.

To-day's results are expected to reveal an increase in the population of about 2,000,000.

Fifty thousand officials and assistants are carrying out the great count. — Reuter.

Warship
Order For BritainENDING FRENCH
MONOPOLY

Belgrade, Nov. 10.

JUGO-SLAVIA is buying British. To-day a contract was signed between the Scottish firm of Yarrow and the Jugo-Slav Ministry of Defence for boilers and machinery to the value of £1,100,000, to equip three new destroyers.

The material will be manufactured in Yarrow's Clyde-side yards. The hulls will be made in Jugo-Slavia by a French firm, but various fittings will be manufactured in Yarrow's small yard at Kraljevitza, on the Adriatic coast.

This order represents work for about 1,000 men for several months.

Recently £200,000 worth of military airplane engines for Jugo-Slavia were ordered from Rolls-Royce in London. British firms are ousting French firms from a market which till now has been almost exclusively French.

NOW...your complexion stays

all evening long...

WHEN HE LOOKS AT YOU
Like That You
Can Be Sure of Yourself

JUST as you turn from your mirror—freshly powdered—then is when you look your best! Oh, if there were only a face powder that would help you keep that Mirror-Fresh appearance!

Take heart, fair lady. There is such a face powder, called MARVELOUS. This powder clings as you've always wanted powder to cling—and never thought it could.

Marvelous, indeed, is a different kind of powder, a different blend, developed by the Richard Hudnut laboratories after years of searching for a new, longer-clinging powder.

The Marvelous blend contains a substance entirely new to face powder—with a remarkable power to cling to your skin. In a sense, it becomes part of your own skin texture.

Marvelous Face Powder, therefore, never looks powdery on your skin. It looks like a new, more freshly-limited, better complexion of your own! And think of it—this flattering effect remains from four to six hours.

THE MAN WHO SAILS
TO NOWHERE

A FUGITIVE FROM FEAR

New York, Nov. 1.

ONE of the last surviving partners of Al Capone, the fallen king of Chicago's racketeers, has been discovered aimlessly sailing backwards and forwards across the Gulf of California.

Tony "Gentleman" Zybosko, who used to be Capone's "out-of-town salesman," was once threatened by a rival gangster organisation.

He felt safe while Capone was at liberty, but as soon as his chief went to gaol he became accursed with fear of sudden death.

He roamed all over the country, but always he thought he was being followed.

In 1932, when he was in Mexico, he had a sudden idea that he would buy a yacht and spend the rest of his days at sea, where he would be safe from gangsters' bullets.

Never Comes Ashore

"Gentleman," not quite so bonair as in his heyday, never comes ashore from his yacht.

He puts into port, usually in Mexico, only when supplies are needed. His three dark, brawny Mexican sailors do all the buying.

Then he puts out to sea, gain and doesn't touch civilisation for another three or four months.

Zybosko seldom talks to his crew. Burned black by constant sunshine, he spends most of his days reading novels, magazines, and every detective story he can lay hands on.

He forbids his sailors to carry guns because he is afraid they might turn on him, but he always has a sub-machine gun at his side, even when the yacht is far out in the Pacific, lest, at some unexpected moment, the sudden death he dreads should confront him.

THE CLUEIT WAS PERFECT
BUT—

This shows you how dangerous circumstantial evidence can be....

AN old man was knocked down by a car on the Margate road.

The car did not stop. The man died.

A piece of a headlamp was found. Scotland-yard broadcast an appeal.

A message came from Sheffield. A car with a lamp broken in the way described was in a garage there.

A detective was sent up with the piece of metal found on the Margate road.

It fitted the gap perfectly. The owner of the car was sent for. He was Mr. Harry Borley, of Low Stone's dance band.

Mr. Borley denied that he had been anywhere near Margate on that date. The detective pointed to the "evidence" of the broken lamp.

Mr. Borley said nothing. He reached into the pocket of his car, produced another piece of metal, and placed it in his headlamp. It, too, fitted perfectly.

"OLD TOM" NOT FORGOTTEN

Every birthday and every Christmas, Old Tom, coachman to the Buelchens and now over seventy, living on a pension at Bowhill, receives a card of good wishes from Lady Alice. Even when she was in Kenya, Old Tom received his birthday card.

ARMS SHAREHOLDERS
WILL REAP PROFITS
OF DEATH

Shareholders in iron, coal, steel and shipbuilding companies, who in some cases have gone without dividends for several years, and in others have had their capital written down, are again seeing the return of some of their money.

There are more than 150,000 shareholders in Vickers. A few years ago Vickers share were written down from £1 to 6s. 8d. each. They have touched a low level of 5s. 0½d., but have recently recovered to 19s.

Vickers shares are held by people of all descriptions, including many clergymen, doctors, soldiers and working men.

Here is a list of prominent shareholders whose shares were a few years ago, worth very little and have now shown recovery:

POST OFFICE INCOME INCREASES

London, Nov. 19. Exchequer returns show that the total ordinary revenue, excluding self-balancing items, amounts to £371,932,198, compared with £358,378,414 at the corresponding date of 1934. The net receipts from Post Office of £12,150,000 are already in excess of the budget estimate for the whole year. The total from Customs and Excise at £191,967,000 compares with £180,981,000 for the same period of the last financial year. Total ordinary expenditure, excluding self-balancing items, is £451,525,563, against £431,824,238 at the corresponding date of last year.—British Wireless.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, Nov. 19. The following reports on the New York Stock Market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz: The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:—The stocks market today were upward, with a demonstration of buying power over the market. Scores of issues reached new high levels on an avalanche of favourable dividend returns and an excellent industrial background. The market for Bonds was strong and active, whilst stocks on the Curb Exchange were upward.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The market closed higher. Copper issues touched a new high level and traders are bullish. Business failures during the past week totalled 210 as compared with 212 failures the previous week. Demand deposits during the week amounted to $1,720,000,000 against $1,608,000,000 the previous week. The Southern Pacific Corporation's report for the first nine months of the year shows a loss of $2,057,165, against a loss of $1,588,943 during the corresponding period of last year. The Union Pacific Railroad Company has earned $2.41 per share for the 9 months ended September 30, against $4.13 per share last year.

Cotton: Approaching Court decisions, further unconfirmed rumours of selling by the Cotton Pool and the impending movement of the Indian and Brazilian crops failed to affect the strength of the market.

Wheat: The supply of Canadian wheat and the approaching availability of the Argentine and Australian crop have about offset the supply and demand situation here. Cash mill markets are firm. The reported dust storms in the South-West have of doubtful importance and December deliveries.

Rubber: The rumored Dutch request for higher quotas has now been denied. It is estimated that shipments from Malaya during November totalled 45,000 tons, while the official figures for October indicate 48,258 tons.

NORTH CHINA CRISIS.

North China is again in the throes of a crisis, with clear evidence of Japan playing a leading part therein. The autonomy movement, which aims at the separation of Shantung, Shansi, Suiyuan, Hopei and Chahar from Nanking control, obviously represents a repetition of the tactics which Japan employed in Manchuria. There will doubtless be the same explanation advanced by Tokyo to account for the origin and growth of the plan—that it represents a spontaneous movement for independence on the part of a populace anxious to succede from the Central Government. Actually, the scheme is Japanese-inspired; and it may be expected to follow the Manchukuo precedent in its major details, with free use, made of local War Lords in the setting up of another puppet regime. The development comes as no surprise, for it represents the culmination of long-planned Japanese efforts to secure political and economic control of North China provinces. It is suggested that Chiang Kai-shek has tacitly accepted the Federation plan, provided that Chinese territorial integrity is not infringed. But apart even from the fact that the scheme very patently would interfere with China's sovereignty, there cannot be the slightest ground for believing that the Generalissimo would for one moment condone this latest piece of Japanese intrigue. He, in common with everyone else, will realise the full implications of the developments now occurring. That the scheme will meet with resistance there cannot be much doubt. Thus once again we are likely to see world attention focussed on Japan's efforts to secure the domination of North China. Another testing time for China's leaders has arrived, and indications are that on this occasion there will be no disposition tamely to submit to Japan's designs on the territorial, political and economic integrity of the country. With the major Powers greatly preoccupied in other issues, Japan has carefully chosen the moment for the carrying out of her programme. China now realises that she will be forced to fight her own battles, but in the event of Japanese penetration making serious inroads on the country's sovereignty, it is quite conceivable that an appeal might be made for League of Nations intervention. A "piquant" situation would then develop, should the League Powers be asked to apply the same principles as they are now doing in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. Whichever way the situation is viewed, its gravity cannot be doubted. In

ITALIAN AIR FORCE and Probable Tactics of the Bombers

By Major

OLIVER STEWART ABYSSINIA

FOR the first time the full modern technique of bombing from the air has been put into operation by the Italian air force. Italian aeroplanes are as advanced in design and construction as any in the world and Italian pilots are among the best trained and most daring. The effects of their attacks will to some extent be a measure of the powers of modern aerial bombing, which is far removed from the elementary methods employed in the war of 1914-18 and which is many times more destructive.

Even then, when the 112lb. bomb was one of the largest used, the release of a bomb or a salvo of bombs upon a target was for the aircraft crew a strange experience. The release may have been done by a wire cable control and, on the throwing over of the lever, the bombs could be watched moving along under the aeroplane at first and gradually curving down towards the ground. Had the pilots and gunners of the European War period had time to do so, no doubt they would have considered the ethics of offensive bombing; but they had not the time.

They were constantly under the menace of sudden death. At any moment enemy fighters might swoop down upon them.

NOTES OF THE DAY IS THIS FIDDLING?

We suppose it is necessary that in Nanking at the present moment a battle of wits should be proceeding with respect to the apparently vital question of the proper number of members to be elected to the Central Executive Committee of the Kuomintang. Whether the Committee should have 160 members, as at present, or less or more, is engaging the attention of many of the leaders of the Chinese people. In the ordinary course of events we can understand a fair proportion of people being interested in such a matter; but just now, with the country facing the probable dismembering of its northern territory in the move towards autonomy by five provinces, it might be expected that the nation's leaders would concentrate upon this problem. The activities of Kuomintang give the impression that a number of men are fiddling while something in the nature of a conflagration is rising near enough to scorch them.

HUNTING FOR JOBS

The not-to-be-forgotten problem of unemployment is constantly before the administrators of the affairs of Great Britain, and it is largely due to painstaking experiment in this matter that the nation's progress towards a normal employment level has been so impressive of late. Considerable progress has been achieved with two "subsistence production" schemes which were established in Great Britain during the spring of this year to provide useful occupation for unemployed men. The centres of the two schemes lie in the Eastern Valley of Monmouthshire and in the Wigan neighbourhood in Lancashire. In both these districts there are many unemployed, and although the schemes do not provide employment in the ordinary sense of the word, they do enable a limited number of men to supplement unemployment assistance by the fruits of their own labour, while at the same time leaving them available for employment through the labour exchanges. According to the original plan the membership in each area is to comprise five hundred. The main purpose of these subsistence production societies is to organise groups in which unemployed men can work co-operatively to provide such productions as foodstuffs and clothing for exchange among themselves, and so raise their standard of living. Everything that is produced is used, or consumed by members of the group and their households. The men are not subject to the common restrictions of employment, but work under a purely co-operative system. They are expected to work in groups for about 36 hours a week on land cultivation, dairy farming, horticulture, poultry farming and other pursuits. Progress has been comparatively rapid; each society already being in possession of a dairy farm whereby it is ensured of a supply of milk and other dairy products. Some may call this Socialism; others common-sense.

the meantime, the portents are that a fresh war will break out in the North in the very near future.

from the sun and then they do so. But they can also go would be turning and twisting through most vertical currents in a "dog-fight" many thousands with safety so that so far as can of feet above the ground, with be seen there is nothing to pre- the chances of making the home-vent Italy's aeroplanes flying aerodrome ever becoming more exactly where they like over remote.

Bombs are not now released by wire controls. They are either released by electrical means, with some form of solenoid pin-withdrawal mechanism or else by a cartridge, electrically ignited, which shoots out the pin and enables the largest bomb to be dropped without perceptible time lag. Moreover, the methods of aiming and dropping have been vastly altered. The bomb sight was simply a form of drift indicator at the beginning of the European war, but now it is an elaborate specialised instrument capable of greater accuracy.

There is the new method of diving bombing, which is believed to be especially effective for certain sorts of target. In this the bombing aeroplane plunges down from a height and releases its bomb when it is near the target. Pattern bombing is done by formations of bombers and has an effect somewhat similar to the gunner's "bracket."

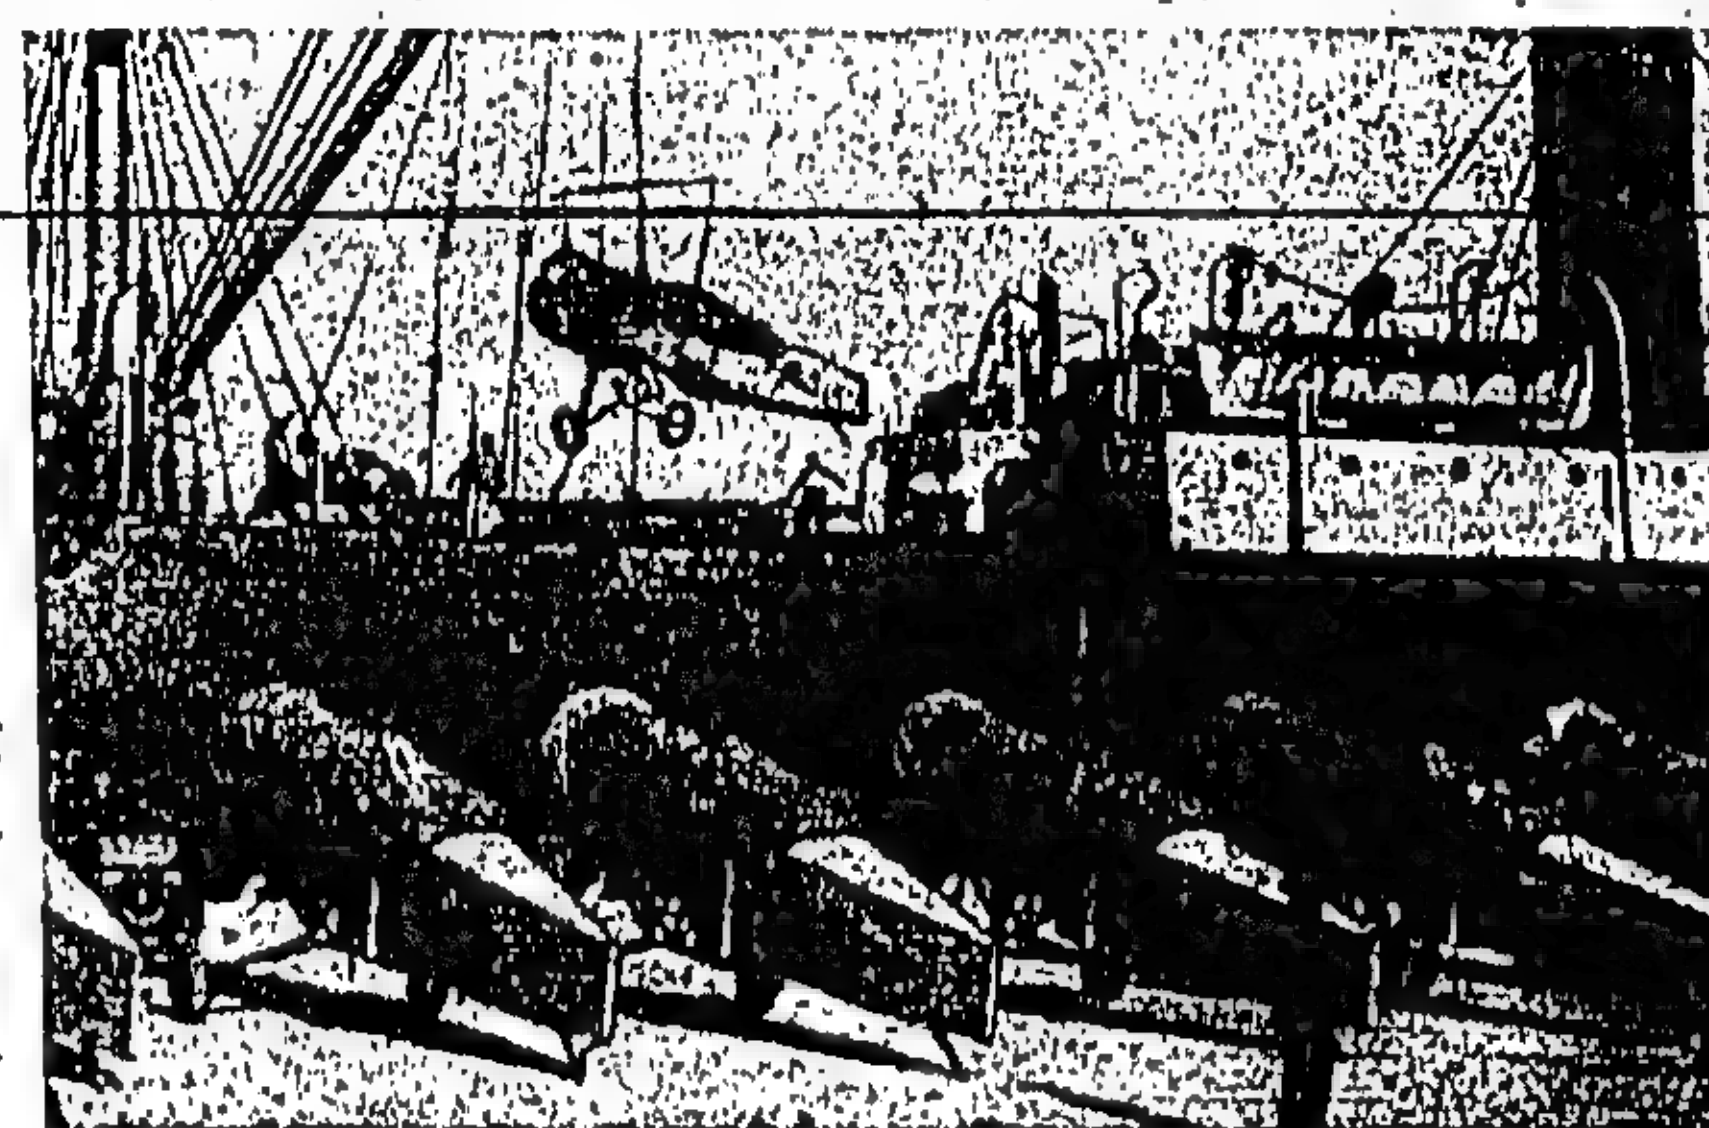

Not long ago the conditions in Abyssinia would have been a bar to effective bombing attacks. The height in many places is over 6,000ft., and the country in many ways unsuitable for aviation. But to-day the Italian air force is able to find and to attack a limited number of targets. Day bombers can fly at over 20,000ft. with full load without any difficulty, and their speed and rate of climb are such that they can afford even in the presence of enemy aircraft, to sacrifice height at the moment of attack in order to discover their objective.

The only real protection against bombing, no matter how well concealed the target, is fighting aeroplanes together with an effective system for pointing out to their pilots the position and course of the bombing machines. Without fighting aeroplanes to contend with the bombing aeroplane pilot has a relatively easy time. He can go so high that anti-aircraft guns of the latest pattern, manned by the most skilful crews, would not be likely to bother him unduly, and his gunner, instead of being continuously on the watch for enemy machines, can keep the track of the navigation and make ready for the actual bomb dropping.

It has been said that the Abyssinians believe that the strong vertical air currents caused by the mountains will form an effective barrier to air action by Italy. So far as bombing is concerned their belief is a delusion. Bombing aeroplanes do not stagger about with their load now as they used to do; they have an ample margin of power and can keep above the vertical currents formed by the ground contours if they want to the same time it has been shown by Great Britain on the North West Frontier and elsewhere, that the aeroplane in its present highly developed form can be used successfully where the conditions are more primitive.

The movements of tribesmen can be watched and a check kept upon the movements of their cattle. Their villages are open to any form of attack the aeroplane may wish to launch. And, finally, it may be noted that the feeling that attack by aerial bomb is more horrible than attack by shell fire is illogical. The aerial bomb, like the shell, is a container filled with high have been due to a hundred causes; not the least being the activities of defending guns and aeroplanes.

One form of aerial attack which is being used by the Italians is that known as "ground strafing." It came into existence on a large scale during the last few months of the war of 1914-18 and consists of low-flying attacks with machine guns and small bombs upon scattered targets selected by the pilot. This form of attack from the air was found to be extraordinarily effective. It is exceedingly demoralising to ground troops.

It is curious that the Abyssinians, although they are virtually without aeroplanes and although their anti-aircraft guns seem to be few in number, are armed with one weapon which is more feared by the experienced fighting air pilot than any other, the rifle. The range of the rifle is very limited, but its accuracy is great and the pilot of the low-flying aeroplane learns to fear it. A good rifle shot is probably the best counter to a ground strafing aeroplane.

Another point to be taken into consideration when the effects of bombing in the present conflict are being considered is that bombs are probably most effective when used against industrialised areas and at their least load now as they used to do; they have an ample margin of power and can keep above the vertical currents formed by the ground contours if they want to explosive or other destructive elements. But it is sent to its target by means of a petrol-driven machine instead of by a gun. The only difference lies in the method of conveyance.

Bombing from the air is hated mainly because it is more demoralising than shell fire; but why it is more demoralising has never, so far as I am aware, been satisfactorily explained. It seems certain, however, that so long as there are wars, there will be aerial bombing and that the use of this method of attack will probably increase in the future.

By Ed. Kelly, Big Bug.

If it's not one thing it's another.

Now there's a shortage of fleas in Europe. The Berlin University wants some for research purposes. As one who, on various occasions in Hongkong, have searched and researched for hours for ours, we can oblige them.

The world-wide depression in the flea industry hasn't struck this Colony yet.

At least, we haven't noticed it. Dirty, our kitten, is a taipan in his own right where fleas are concerned. Then there has been the time when flea research work has kept us up all night.

We have put our finger on more places where the flea isn't than any investigator in the world.

And we always started from scratch. The flea has invariably won.

We once knew a ticklish comortionist who had a flea. It wasn't his own flea; somebody gave it to him. It took two coolies three-quarters of an hour to undo him. He became hysterical towards the end.

If we had a flea and someone said to us, "What kind?" we'd say, "No, savage."

There are no kind fleas.

GLASGOW LOCKOUT

OWNER'S PROTEST AGAINST STRIKES

London, Nov. 19. A complete lockout has been declared at Glasgow Docks as a protest by the employers against recurring strikes and unofficial stoppages.

It is stated that such interruptions have caused much inconvenience in the past year and have culminated in a number of stoppages over week-ends.

Over 3,500 men are affected and a number of ships have been held up indefinitely at the Glasgow Docks.—Router Special.

SWEEPING BADMINTON WIN FOR RECREIO "B"

DRAW FIRST BLOOD IN MEN'S DOUBLES DIV.

S. AND S. HOME OUTPLAYED

EFFECTIVE COMBINATION OF L.A. AND P.M. SILVA

As generally expected the Recreio "B" drew first blood in the season's campaign for the men's doubles championship of the Badminton League when they met the Sailors and Soldiers' Home last night.

The Portuguese made a clean sweep of the board, winning all nine games with an aggregate of 102 points against 60.

There were some curious fluctuations in form. L. C. Gibbons and G. Hall, second string in the losing team carried N. Beltrao and A. J. Baslo to 21-23 before admitting defeat, yet lost to L. A. and A. M. Silva by 21-1.

It was the Silva combination who also accounted for A. Edwards and W. Merrett for the loss of one point after the same pair had taken ten points from Xavier and Barros and nine from Beltrao and Baslo.

The Silvas in fact won their three games with the loss of only eight points—an outstanding achievement.

Unbeaten scores follow:
N. Beltrao and A. J. Baslo (Recreio) beat D. Wagon and Yang Chan 21-3
L. C. Gibbons and G. Hall 24-3
beat A. Edwards and W. Merrett 21-9
L. A. R. Xavier and H. A. Barros (Recreio) beat Wagon and Chan 21-1
beat Gibbons and Hall 24-3
beat Edwards and Merrett 21-10
L. A. R. Silva and A. M. Silva (Recreio) beat Wagon and Chan 21-6
beat Gibbons and Hall 21-1
beat Edwards and Merrett 21-1

NO TEAM YET

KOWLOON TONG'S QUANDARY

REQUIRE ANOTHER LADY PLAYER

Kowloon Tong are still in a quandary concerning their mixed doubles badminton team. Miss Mackenzie is not available to play against the Sailors and Soldiers' Home on Friday, and although in an endeavour to avoid postponement, strenuous efforts have been made to fill her place, the club has so far been unsuccessful.

Until this morning there was every indication that it would be possible to turn out a team, but those hopes have been dashed by the inability of the proposed substitute to play.

Kowloon Tong intend to pursue their efforts to secure another lady player, and in view of this a final decision may not be reached until to-morrow morning. In the event of failure, there are several alternatives.

The S. and S. Home can either agree to a postponement, or Kowloon Tong can play with two pairs and concede three games, or they can concede the whole match and with it the league points.

I think too, according to the rules, in the event of the teams being unable mutually to agree to a postponement and the defaulting team is satisfied that it has justifiable reason for a postponement, it can appeal to the Association for jurisdiction.

ST. ANDREW'S TEAM

I must apologise for inadvertently announcing in yesterday's issue that the men's doubles match between St. Andrew's "B" and the C.R.C. was scheduled for to-morrow. The match is being played this evening at St. Andrew's. And the composition of the home team has now been finally settled.

The third pair will consist of Dr. Matthews and S.A. Broadbridge, the full team being: A.S. Bliss and M. Wells; R. Brooks and C. Angus; Dr. Matthews and S.A. Broadbridge.

Kowloon Tong's team to meet St. John's this evening has now been completed and will be:

G. A. White and S. A. Gray; P. Wong and Peter Sin (or K. K. Wong); S. L. Chan and K. H. Wong.

CANADIAN RECRUITS FOR BRITISH HOCKEY TEAMS

With many recruits gleaned from Canadian amateur hockey ranks, British ice hockey teams are preparing for a monster season. Wembley (London) teams are already rounding into shape for the schedule which will pit them against other British teams and possibly some European squads. Here are some new additions to Wembley Lions and Wembley Canadians, both popular metropolitan teams, in the practice on the ice of the Empire Pool at Wembley Stadium. A major showdown is impending on the amateur status of British teams, with recruits threatened with a ban by the ruling body. So far the flow of new material has not been checked.

Lord Burghley's Appointment

TO BE PRESIDENT OF A.A.A.

One of the greatest of all track hurdlers, Lord Burghley, will in a few months be holding office as president of the Amateur Athletic Association.

This was the surprising news disclosed by the governing body of British athletics during the week-end. It follows closely on the decision of 80-year-old Lord Desborough to resign the post.

Lord Burghley has yet to be elected, but there is not the slightest doubt about that. He has been unanimously nominated by the A.A.A. General Committee, and at the annual meeting next March one can imagine a forest of approving hands shooting up when the question is put to the vote.

Lord Burghley, a staunch lover of athletics and a top-class exponent of it, is a man of widespread popularity, admired by officials and competitors alike.

SUPREME

Lord Burghley is a good mixer when he is in the game actively, with a friendly handshake and a smile for any competitor.

In addition to which he naturally commands considerable respect because of his splendid talents. When at his best there was none to touch him over the 440 yards low hurdles, as he was not only a brilliant hurdler but an uncommonly good quarter-miler.

Champion of Britain for several years, he set the seal on his career by winning the Olympic 400 metres hurdles at Amsterdam, beating the crack American, Cuhel and Taylor.

Lord Burghley will be the fifth A.A.A. president and the youngest ever to take office. In fact, it is doubtful whether any national sports body at any time has had one so young at its head.

For Lord Burghley was 30 last February.

OFFSIDE TRAP SHOULD BE AN ATTACKING MOVE

FAMOUS EX-FOOTBALLER GIVES HIS VIEWS

(By Arbitrator)

If the old style football were to be brought back just for one afternoon I wonder if it would be recognised.

I would at once urge that the game as it was played before the alteration of the off-side rule should be demonstrated if there were any possibility of the authorities relaxing the regulations to permit it.

It would be an enlightening entertainment for present-day enthusiasts who believe that they live in the best of all football worlds and who never saw or have forgotten how the game used to be played.

Even in the case of those with long memories, the game has changed to a greater extent than is probably realised.

Yesterday while I was discussing with Mr. William McCracken the chance of the old off-side rule being brought back generally, he pointed to a change which is marked, but of which I had not appreciated the significance. "In my playing days with Newcastle United," Mr. McCracken said, "the defence always dictated an attacking policy whereas to-day the forwards are largely allowed to dominate the defence."

In explanation of this he pointed to the centre forward lying far up the field as the spearhead of the attack. No matter how far he advanced, the opposing centre half moved with him and the two backs retreated still farther.

"I do not think we should have permitted this," Mr. McCracken remarked. "I used to say, 'If any windows are to be broken, let it be in the other fellow's backyard,' and I think we should have moved up to drive the centre forward back or left him in an off-side position."

In the view of Mr. McCracken, the off-side trap is not, or should not be, set for defensive purposes. It comes about through a general attacking policy.

LEN HARVEY BACK INTO BOXING LIMELIGHT

ROUSING VICTORY OVER EDDIE PHILLIPS

ENTERPRISE AND DASH EARN RIGHT TO MEET PETERSEN

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

London, Oct. 26.

Len Harvey can examine his entire thirteen years of fighting and fail to cite a smarter or more impressive performance than he gave in his home town of Plymouth on Saturday night in outboxing, and often outclassing, his London challenger, Eddie Phillips.

The man is an enigma. Notorious for his spilling defensive boxing, Harvey, at the age of 28, showed that when he likes he can be a highly entertaining and brilliant fighter. Throughout the 15 rounds there was not the suspicion of a hold or a pull, or anything that is not permitted by the book.

It was boxing of a delightful kind. Never in his life has Harvey fought with greater freedom, finer enterprise, or more dash. Wonderfully fast, his brain was working a second faster than his opponents', all through the fight. Phillips found himself out-thought, and consequently outpaced, by a man who gave no rest—who was accurate and dangerous when attacking and almost as deadly with his counter-blows when on the retreat.

MAN OF COURAGE
I reckoned Phillips to win the ninth round and take a share of four others. The other Harvey simply galloped away with by masterly left hook punching and hammering rights to the jaw—which Phillips took in a style which must stamp him for ever as a man of courage and determination.

Phillips has never fought better, yet he lost the decision by a crushing margin. Phillips, with his long left, stabbed away in great style at Harvey's mouth, putting his lips and at one stage causing him to go very tired. But back came Harvey as lively as a cricket in the closing rounds to set the seal on the dazzling work of the first part of the fight.

Harvey was cheekily confident. He would bluff Phillips with left-hand feints and then nail him with a right to the chin. He would play for the body with his right and quite unexpectedly whip up a left hook to knock Phillips's head back.

DEFENSIVE HITTING
And nothing better has been seen in British boxing for years than Harvey's defensive hitting—very rarely a lost art these days. A man while retreating can and does blow and smash home counter-hits without losing balance has class. Harvey was doing that in round after round, and Phillips hardly knew what it was all about.

It was a kind of aggressive defence, paradoxical though it seems—very hard and very powerful. Harvey was also went boldly forward to attack the bigger man. In the eleventh round he placed a succession of splendidly aimed blows in Phillips's jaw and ultimately had him on the verge of a knock-out.

Phillips saved himself by a desperate rally, swinging both gloves with accuracy and with a viciousness that would have made it dangerous for Harvey to have pressed home his advantage.

The left-hand punching of both men was excellent, and there were times when Phillips shook Harvey badly with right-hand shots. But defensively there was no comparison between them. Phillips must have missed more times than he would do in the course of three ordinary fights, and he was absolutely unable to check Harvey's shrewd counter-punching.

Phillips finished the struggle with cuts under both his eyes, but it can truly be said of him that he surprised himself in defeat. As for Harvey, he is ready once again for Jack Petersen. And if this Plymouth form, which delighted a 7,000 crowd, is reproduced by Harvey it will not be odds against him regaining the heavyweight championship.

DEFEATS MENZEL

Koshien, Nov. 18.

Jiro Yamagishi to-day placed himself in the front ranks of tennis players by defeating Hoderick Menzel, a giant member of the Czechoslovakian Davis Cup team and the world's seventh best player, in three straight sets, 7-5, 6-2, 6-1. Yamagishi's victory came in the finals of the All-Japan hard court championships. Last summer, playing for Japan in the Davis Cup matches, the Japanese player lost to Menzel.

Yesterday Yamagishi, pairing with Murakami, a Koto University youngster, completed the rout of the Czechoslovakian visitors, Menzel and Hocht, by annexing the doubles championship in five sets. After losing the first two sets to the visitors, the Japanese team rallied to win the next three sets and the match, 2-6, 6-7, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

TO PLAY CRICKET AS A GAME

Ideal Of M.C.C. Touring Team In Australia

Perth, W. Australia, Oct. 25.

The M.C.C. cricket team who are touring Australia and New Zealand had the novel experience of being welcomed by the Australian side for South Africa—when they arrived here to-day. The Australian team, captained by Victor Richardson, were playing in a farewell match against Western Australia, and before to-day's play was begun the Australians went to the wharf to greet the English players.

R. T. Holmes's men all looked thoroughly fit, and their jovial spirits created a good impression on those who welcomed them.

The Englishmen were anxious to get down to practice and start a happy tour in which, it is sincerely hoped that controversial topics will be taboo.

At a civic reception given to the M.C.C. team Colonel Sir William Robert Champion, a former Governor of Western Australia, who came over on the same boat as the team, said: "The English team will play the game of cricket as a game. They are probably one of the best fielding sides to visit Australia. When set they won't dally but hit the ball hard."

MATCH DRAWN

M.C.C. CRICKETERS IN AUSTRALIA

Melbourne, Nov. 19.

Although four days were allocated of the cricket match between the M.C.C. tourists, who are on their way to New Zealand, and Victoria, rain on the first and second days prevented the fixture from being finished.

The Victorian eleven compiled 332 for nine wickets, declared, in the first innings, to which the tourists replied with a score of 252. R. Gregory captured five of the wickets for 80 runs.

Victoria ran up a score of 122 runs for one wicket in the second innings and declared. Of these Keith Rigg, who had made 112 in the first innings, contributed 59 without losing his wicket.

The M.C.C. had scored 40 for three when stumps were drawn.

The match was thus left drawn.

Offside
Tactics
Discussed

At Hull, "Like many others, Mr. McCracken has given a deal of thought to the defensive centre half in an endeavour to find the way to beat him," and he told me of private experiments he had made. "I sent both inside forwards up," he said, "and brought the centre forward back to a place in the middle in front of the centre half. But the trouble about manoeuvres of this sort is that you want the players to carry them out, and it is harder to learn than to learn. I believe there are possibilities in the plan, but so far as we were concerned I decided that it was better to rely on the formation now generally adopted."

"I think Herbert Chapman, however, would have tried to make something of the idea. I had discussed it with him, and at the time had begun to fear that opponents had discovered ways and means to checkmate the Arsenal's schemes. He was certainly looking for plans to create a new element of surprise, and I believe he would have found them. He, however, had the players capable of adapting themselves to new ideas."

CONGESTION

Further discussing the modern development of the game, Mr. McCracken pointed out how frequently a team who had attacked for three-quarters of the match were beaten.

The truth was, he said, that they had attacked so persistently that they had driven their opponents into defensive positions from which they could not move. In this way a state of congestion was brought about until suddenly the ball was shipped away by the defenders and in two or three moves it was taken to the other end and put into the net.

"I am half persuaded," Mr. McCracken added, "that for away matches it may be a good policy for a team to throw most of their weight into the defence and rely on a quick breakaway to steal a goal and win the game."

PETER YOUNG
ARRESTEDMISSING CASHIER OF CANTON BANK

The Shanghai Police have arrested Peter Young, who is wanted in Hongkong and Canton on a charge of the embezzlement in 1933 of $208,000 from his former employers, the Hongkong branch of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank, Chater Road.

According to the Shanghai newspapers, Young was recognised from a "wanted" notice issued by the Hongkong Police and was arrested in an apartment off the North Szechuen Road. He was formally charged in the First Special District Court with embezzlement and he was remanded for a week.

From Good Family

It will be recalled that Peter Young's alleged embezzlement and subsequent disappearance caused a great sensation in Hongkong and Canton when the news was published on August 26, 1933. Not only was he well known socially being a son of the late Mr. Young Sai-ngam, Finance Minister of the Canton Government when the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen was Generalissimo and head of the Kuomintang Government in Canton. Young Sai-ngam spent something like a million dollars to assist the late Kuomintang leader in his organisation of the Northern Expedition. Peter Young was given the important post of cashier of the Hongkong branch of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank largely owing to his father's friendship with the Kuomintang leaders. Before taking the appointment Young worked for some years with the Shichow and Swatow branches of the Bank, as its treasurer.

Reward of $10,000

That Young was trusted by his employers was shown by the fact that although he disappeared with $208,000 on August 16, 1933 the embezzlement was not revealed until several days afterwards. When leaving Hongkong Young told other members of the Bank staff that he was visiting friends in Canton. He went away with the keys to the safe and it was only after several days' absence, that the suspicion of the Bank's manager was aroused and he called for the Hongkong Police.

A warrant for Young's arrest was issued on August 25, while the Canton Government offered a reward of $10,000 for information leading to his capture.

Subsequently the Canton Police threatened to confiscate the valuable Canton property of Peter Young's family to compensate for the Bank's loss of $208,000. In a statement the Secretary of the head office of the Kwangtung Provincial Bank then said that it would not be difficult to make good the funds alleged to have been embezzled by the missing treasurer by confiscating some of family estate.

Rode for Governor
A keen motorist, swimmer and rider, Peter Young was a popular member of the Hongkong young set. As a jockey he had won races at Hongkong and Macao. During the Spring Meeting of the Macao Jockey Club in 1933 Young rode a Macao subscription griffin. So On, owned by His Excellency the Governor of Macao. His pony won the Jockey Cup although it started as an outsider. The win paid $91 and there were only 13 backers. Peter Young scored his first win in Happy Valley riding Golden Arrow in the Carnarvon Stakes during the Eleventh Extra Meeting of the Hongkong Jockey Club on October 8, 1932.

Young's race records in 1932 showed one win, three seconds and 14 unplaced positions in 1932 and five wins, six seconds and eight thirds and 43 unplaced positions for 1933.

He was a member of the Hongkong Jockey Club and Macao Jockey Club until 1933, the time of his disappearance.

SERIAL STORY

DONNA THE BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER

CHAPTER XXXIII

Donna opened the door of the farm house and faced Pete Rader. She had never seen him before and greeted him with a bewildered "Yes."

"I got a note for you, Miss Siddal, and I'm to fetch an answer back."

The moment she saw the envelope an icy chill passed over the girl. She opened the door a trifle wider and asked the boy to come in. Then, making sure she had closed the door, she sat down and opened the envelope. There were no witnesses, she tore open the envelope. Her hand shook so violently that the folded sheet slipped to the floor.

Donna stooped quickly and picked it up, conscious that the eyes of the boy were filled with curiosity. When she dawned upon her that Con had written the message and that he was within five miles of her she dropped to the horsehair sofa and looked blankly at Pete.

"He's that circus feller that went into the lions' cage," Pete volunteered. "I recognized him."

"Yes," Donna said huskily. She read the curt little note again and then tore it up. "There is no answer," she said.

"But—"

"I'll telephone—tell him that."

Rather reluctantly, Pete rose. At the door he repeated, "He said I was to get an answer. You'll be sure to telephone, won't you? If you don't I may not get my dollar."

"I'll phone," Donna promised. She waited until she heard the outer door slam and then she slipped the scraps of paper into the fireplace. She watched them slowly crumple into ashes, wondering what she was to do. How could she telephone? There was only one telephone in the house and it was in the hallway just off the dining room. Every word she said could be heard by those at the dinner table.

After the differences between herself and Bill, the presence of Con David in Lebanon was a definite menace to her happiness even though Con were there as a friend, and Donna had serious doubts of that. Something had brought the animal trainer to the little town when by all reason he should have been in vaudeville or in some European circus.

Of course she could ignore the message. Possibly that was the best thing to do. She owed nothing to Con and since Madeline's death did not even feel kindly toward him. Unquestionably he had caused Madeline to risk her life.

At any rate it was impossible to get in touch with him that day. Tomorrow, perhaps, when Bill was out of the house—

She glanced at her reflection in the mirror over the fireplace and saw that her face was pale. She pinched her cheeks to bring back their colour, smoothed her hair and returned to the dining room.

"What was it?" Bill asked as she took her place at the table.

"Some nonsense inquiry for the Lawrence place," Donna lied. Fortunately Bill was not looking at her and did not see the deep flush that accompanied her words.

Throughout the long meal (which had lost its favour for Donna) Grandfather Siddal and Miss Perkins and Bill kept up gay chatter. Donna tried her best to join in the conversation but her thoughts kept returning to the man at the hotel in Lebanon. Why was he there? Of course the circus had closed with the cold weather, but that was no reason to bring a high-spirited performer like Con to such a place as Lebanon.

The more she thought about it the more dismayed Donna became. Her first reaction, upon receiving the note, had been fear of what Bill would say or do if he knew the man he believed to be his rival were in town. Now Con himself became a menace.

She must telephone him and learn what he wanted. How could she wait until the next day? If only there were some excuse to leave the house, and go to a neighbour's—

At last the meal came to an end. Bill pushed his chair back and stretched in lazy contentment. Then he and the nurse took the old man back to his bedroom. Evening prayers were said, a chapter from the Bible read, and Donna went into the kitchen to help Minnie with the dishes.

"You didn't eat nothing," Minnie said. "Reckon you spent too much time fixing 'em to enjoy your vittuals."

"I suppose so."

"Sure did my soul good to see the way Grandpa relished his food! Ma says as long as a person can relish their food they get some comfort in life. My Grandfather lived till he was 95 and to the day of his death he had an appetite like a farm hand. Ma says the reason he lived so long was because—"

"If you are going to spend the afternoon with your family," Donna interrupted gently, "you'd better work faster and talk less."

"Reckon so. My sakes, it's three o'clock! Job'll be coming along most any second now."

Job was Minnie's "steady." For two years they had been "keeping company" and the probabilities were that they would be keeping company for several years more.

"Run along and change your dress," Donna said. "I'll finish this."

"I don't like—"

"That's all right."

Alone in the kitchen Donna dallied with her work. As though her conscience were really guilty, she dreaded being alone with Bill. It was dark when the last dish had been placed in the cupboard, the hot pot polished, and Donna stood behind the great iron stove.

Donna dried her hands and started towards the living room. Just as she reached the doorway to behind her she heard the jangle of the telephone bell. Before she could get there Bill stepped into the hallway and took the receiver from the hook.

She stood as though frozen into stone, absolutely certain that Con David was on the wire.

"Yes, this is the Siddal farm," she heard Bill say. "Yes, she's here. Who wants her?"

Donna crushed one hand against her mouth to stifle the cry she felt must escape her. When Bill said, "Mrs. Planter wants to talk to you," her relief was so great she giggled hysterically.

"What in the name of time does she want?" Bill said, scratching his head.

"Can't say," Donna took the receiver and spoke into the phone. "Yes."

"It's me, Madeline," the harsh voice came over the wire, softened with an attempt at sweetness. "Being it's Thanksgiving and we're most the same as kin, I thought I'd telephone and wish you a happy day."

"Thank you, Donna answered. "That's kind of you. I wish you the same."

"I s'pose it's a nice surprise to you to know your friend's in town?"

"I don't understand."

"Land sakes, don't tell me you don't know the feller is in town—"

Donna snapped the receiver back on the hook and leaned against the wall. Her aches checked informed Bill that something was wrong, though fortunately he had not heard anything the housekeeper had said.

"What's the matter, honey?"

"That woman—she's a devil! A regular devil! Wishing me a happy Thanksgiving when—"

"What did she say?"

"I won't repeat it. I shouldn't be upset, but Bill, she hates me. Whether it's true or not that she wanted to marry Grandfather, she's never forgiven me for staying here and she's so eaten up with spite she wouldn't stop at anything to ruin our happiness."

"A fat chance she has of doing that!" Bill laughed. He put an arm around her shoulders and rubbed his chin against her head. "It would take more than an old vinegar bottle like Mrs. Planter to cause trouble between us, darling."

"I wonder. Suppose—suppose she came to you and tried to convince you that—"

"Great Scott, lover, do you think I'd listen to any of Lizzie Planter's tales? Don't forget I've known her longer than you have and I know her reputation as a gossip. I'm surprised at you, Madeline, if you put so little faith in me that you think I'd be influenced by what anyone could say."

"It isn't that I haven't faith in you."

"Honey, Mrs. Planter predicted a thousand calamities when she knew we were going to be married. All the rot she could think of against cousins, etc. You know that as well as I do. If what she said they had had any weight with me you'd have some reason now to wonder. But to get bothered—why, you're trembling! It's the most ridiculous thing I ever heard of. What did the old snake say, anyway?"

"Just insinuations. But, oh Bill, you are jealous and you do get suspicious without provocation—"

"He held her at arm's length and studied her pretty, troubled face. "I advise you not to test me," he said slowly. "With real provocation I would be a tough customer, Madeline. If you were untrue to me I'd probably kill you and the man, too."

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Filmmakers who have come to think of a cameraman as someone who just stands around and cranks a camera while everyone else does the important work will have to revise that picture when they come to deal with Lee Garmes, cameraman and assistant director with Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur at their Astoria, L. I. studios. Garmes, whose most recent filming job was that of "The Scoundrel," starring Noel Coward and featuring a new type of cameraman. He is the first of his calling to combine the duties of director of photography and associate director on a sound picture, and he believes that the increasing importance of his department in all cameraman of recognised ability being given more voice in the production of pictures. Long before the cameras begin to grind, Garmes does his most important work. No story planning or set-designing conference is complete unless he is present. He visualizes the project in terms of the lens and when he suggests changes for the sake of his cameras, the changes are made. Garmes, who won the 1931 Academy Award for his photography on "Shanghai Express," first attracted attention by his filming of "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter" in 1925. His association with films dates back to 1916 when he first went to work in Hollywood as a "prop" boy. By 1918 he was a full-fledged cameraman. Among his recent camera accomplishments are the photography of "Smilin' Through," "Zoo in Budapest" and "I Am Suzanne". Since, in "The Scoundrel", Noel Coward makes his film debut, it was Garmes' task to learn the film peculiarities of this famous star and to work out a photograph technique for him. How well he has done this may be judged by those who view the picture. Written, directed and produced by Hecht and MacArthur, "The Scoundrel" presents Coward as a literary Casanova who tramples ruthlessly on love until, when the hour of retribution comes, he can find no one to love him. —Julio Haydon, Hope Williams and Stanley Ridges support Coward in this film.

"In Caliente"

"In Caliente," First National's latest musical offering with Dolores Costello and Pat O'Brien in the stellar roles has been booked for the Queen's Theatre for the next attraction, opening this week-end. Busby Berkeley, famous creator of scene spectacles, has staged three big song and dance numbers entitled "In Caliente," "Lady in Red" and "Hushabye When the Band Leads." Phil Regan as a chief bandit, does the singing while Dolores Costello is featured in a dancing review.

"Lady in Red" is sung by Winifred Shaw, musical comedy star and "In Caliente," the title song, is sung by a group of entertainers. Another number, a vaudeville review, when the band leads, is sung by Phil Regan. The catchy airs and lyrics were written by Warren and Dublin. Pat O'Brien portrays an ultra sophisticated magazine editor who is brilliant but eccentric, a large part of the time, he gets mixed up with a charming blonde, so his employer kidnaps him and takes him to Caliente to try to sober him up. There he meets Dolores in the role of a famous dancer, and falls for both herself and her dancing, forgetting that he had once written a vicious review about her. Glenda Farrell, who plays the part of the blonde menace, will not give Pat up, until she discovers that his money. Leo Carrillo is the rascally uncle of Dolores, who tries to profit by the entire transaction.

"Men of the Hour"

There's never a dull moment in the life of a newspaper cameraman! If he isn't clambering aboard a sinking ship to get a shot of the radio operator at his post, he's throwing himself in front of a speeding ambulance to save a can of precious film. Or so Richard Cromwell and Wallace Ford discovered during the making of "Men of the Hour" the Columbia production, dramatising the lives of those soldiers of fortune who see a camera where their predecessors saw a sword. "Men of the Hour" is playing at the Alhambra from to-day until Friday. Both Cromwell and Ford have always been interested in the adventurous exploits of newsreel cameramen, but they failed to realize the actual danger involved in the day's work until they reported on the set the first day of production. When ever Ford and Cromwell see a newsreel now, they sit forward on the edge of their seats and whistle at the dangers the cameramen must have to face to get the scenes. Cromwell knows just how it feels to climb up a steep cliff, carrying a heavy camera. He also knows the sensation of grinding away on a camera atop a car speeding at sixty miles an hour. But, for a real thrill, according to Dick, try shooting a burning building from a fire-escape six feet away! Billie Seward is featured opposite Cromwell and Ford. Jack La Rue, Wesley Barry, Charles Wilson and Pat O'Brien comprise the supporting cast of "Men of the Hour," which was directed by Lambert Hillyer.

"Wednesday's Child"

If you have courage and are willing to see yourself as your children see you, don't miss "Wednesday's Child," RKO-Radio's drama which opened yesterday at the Star Theatre. If you lack courage, go anyway, for this fine play will develop it. In "Wednesday's Child" you will see the finest boy actor this side of that of the world's central dividing line—twelve-year-old Frankie Thomas, who last season stirred up blasé old Broadway with his interpretation of the same role in the stage success. This remarkable boy plays a longer and more difficult part than is assigned to many adult actors of the stage or screen. Leopold Atins wrote the original play, Willis Goldbeck adapted it for the screen, and John Robertson directed the film. Kenneth Macgowan, who made "Little Women" was the Associate Producer. Karen Morley enacted the mother role, perhaps the warmest, most vibrant performance of her entire career, and Edward Arnold portrays the father in an impressive and sympathetic manner. Other fine character portrayals are contributed by Robert Shayne, Shirley Grey, Howard Leeds, Westley Giraud, Julius Molnar, Dick Quaine and John Roberts.

"Murder on a Honeymoon"

Edna May Oliver and James Gleason, that infinitely screen team, mix hilarious comedy with tense melodrama while solving the answer to RKO-Radio's latest mystery thriller, "Murder on a Honeymoon," which is now at the King's Theatre. Miss Oliver plays an angular, snooty schoolmarm of the 1890-vintage who is suspicious that every death is a murder, while Mr. Gleason portrays a fast-talking, but rather obtuse police inspector. "Murder on a Honeymoon" is a rapid-action mystery melodrama played out against the beautiful background of the blue Pacific and lovely Catalina Island. The mystery of who killed a man in a seaplane flying between Los Angeles and Catalina is solved by Miss Oliver and Gleason in a series of laugh-provoking episodes that alternate thrills and chills with the comedy. The solution of the crime comes in a surprise denouement. And before the final fade-out every passenger in the death place has been caught in the web of suspicion, even the officious Miss Oliver. She has given the dead man a whiff of smelling salts. Another passenger had given him a drink, another had proffered some chewing gum and the victim smoked a cigarette. Lola Lane, as an ambitious Hollywood extra, gives an excellent performance and Dorothy Labaire and Harry Ellerbe are delightful as the honeymoon couple. George Meeker is convincing in a rather thankless role.

"Stranded"

Only an eighth wonder of the world could stop the Hollywood set builders. It did! Warner Bros. could not reproduce the great Golden Gate Bridge, now being built and which is the background of important action in "Stranded" opening at the Queen's Theatre to-day, although the company did reproduce sections of it. The Golden Gate Bridge has a suspension span nearly three times as long as that of Brooklyn Bridge. It is supported by towers so huge that it requires 450 freight cars to haul the steel for one tower. While the bridge proper is 6,450 feet long, the total length, including the approaches is 7 miles. Even the movies could not build this! Its massiveness, however, set the scale for the rest of the production of "Stranded." The use of the Golden Gate Bridge is in the nature of a preview of the biggest undertaking of its kind in history, and a project that will be prominent in the world's headlines for years to come. "Stranded" is a stirring drama featuring Key Francis and George Brent. Frank Borzage directed.

U.S. SHIP TAKES OIL TO AFRICA

CREW GETTING BIG BONUS

(Special to "Telegraph")

San Pedro, Nov. 19. The Oregon sails to-night. The seamen have accepted a 50 per cent salary bonus, plus insurance.

There seemed little chance of the freighter leaving for Shanghai, Manila and Singapore with her cargo of petrol. The seamen refused to work the ship unless they had the assurance of the Government that they would be protected in the event of the Oregon's cargo being destined for a belligerent nation.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, advised the Maritime Federation that "if the gasoline mentioned is in fact destined for an Italian possession no guarantee for the safety of the crew can be given. The President has made it clear," he added, "that oil people who voluntarily engage in transactions with either belligerent do so at their own risk."

Hence the Oregon tie-up appeared permanent.—United Press.

Speculation On New Cabinet

RADICAL CHANGES MAY BE DELAYED

London, Nov. 19. The newspapers continue to speculate on the reorganisation of the government following the General Election, and the suggestion is now made in some quarters that the Prime Minister may decide to make a few changes in the early days of the new Parliament and to postpone reconstruction until some time next year.

In the meantime, Mr. Baldwin, who saw the King this morning, is in consultation with his colleagues. This afternoon he saw Mr. Ramsay MacDonald again and also attended a Privy Council meeting later.

The Premier was also visited by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Lord Halifax, Mr. Runciman and the Chief Government Whip, Captain Margesson.

ORKNEY RESULT
The result of the election in Orkney and Shetland Islands was declared to-day. Major Nevillson (Conservative) polled 8,406 votes and was elected. Sir Robert Hamilton (Liberal) polled 6,108. This is a Conservative gain.

With only one result outstanding till next Monday—the Scottish Universities returning three members—the Government supporters in the new House of Commons number 423 and the Opposition 184. Two members ranking as Opposition, however, will not take their seats. They are the National abstentionists elected for Fermanagh and Tyrone, who, by refusing to sit and take the oath, will forfeit their deposits and not be entitled to their salaries as members of Parliament. Allowing for these two, the Government already has a working majority of 246.—British Wireless.

MACDONALD'S FUTURE
London, Nov. 19. It is understood that the Government will find a seat for Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, thus enabling him to remain a member of the Cabinet. Several Conservative members will probably be prepared to retire if officially asked to do so.—Reuter Special.

QUETTA QUAKE HONOURS LIST NOW ISSUED

London, Nov. 19. In connection with the earthquake at Quetta in May, a number of awards have been made by the King and the Viceroy of India.

The honours include the appointment of Major General Henry Karslake, who was General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Western Command, at the time, to be a Knight Commander of the Order of the Star of India and of Lieutenant Colonel S. G. S. Haughton, Officiating Assistant Director of Medical Services, to be a Companion of the Order of the Indian Empire.

An appeal has been issued in England, signed among others by the Secretary for India, Lord Zetland, Lord Halifax and Sir Samuel Hoare, for funds for a new hospital at Quetta.—British Wireless.

NO NEGLIGENCE BY "AFRIKA"

APPEAL COURT ARGUMENT

SUBMISSIONS BY MR. POTTER

Further arguments against the finding of the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, concerning the fault of the m.v. Afrika in her collision with the President Jefferson in Hongkong harbour last year, were made by Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., at the Full Court of Appeal this morning when the appeal and cross-appeal brought by the owners of the ships, the American Mail Line and the East Asiatic Co., Ltd., respectively, were resumed.

The Chief Justice, in the Lower Court, found the President Jefferson was responsible for the collision to the extent of 70 per cent, and the Afrika 30 per cent. Both parties are now asking for 100 per cent. verdict.

The Court comprised the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor; Mr. Justice A. G. Moosop, Judge of the British Court in Shanghai; and Mr. Justice R. E. Lindzell, Puisne Judge, with Capt. R. N. Benson, R.N., and Capt. J. Smith as assessors.

Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.C., and Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., instructed by Mr. D. H. Blake, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, appeared for the American Mail Line. Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., and Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. O. E. C. Marton, of Messrs. Deacons, are for the East Asiatic Co., Ltd.

RIGHT OF WAY

Continuing his argument on the adverse finding against the Afrika by the Chief Justice, Mr. Potter submitted that there had been no negligence on the part of the Afrika. The fact that the President Jefferson was going to anchor in that area of water, counsel contended, did not mean that Afrika had no right to proceed in that very fact. The Afrika was absolutely entitled to proceed there subject, of course, to the reservation that she would not run into the other ship. The argument for the other party was that seeing the President Jefferson had dropped her anchor, the Afrika was denied the right to proceed there. But, on the other hand, Mr. Jenkin had not mentioned that after the anchor had been dropped it dragged for 800 feet.

Mr. Potter contended that that particular track of water was a fairway and the only ship which ought not to be there at all for the purpose of anchoring was the President Jefferson, because nobody would expect a ship to anchor in the fairway. If the President Jefferson intended to anchor there, she must do so in a proper and efficient manner so as to avoid other ships. A dolphin was nearby and he was sure that the Afrika would for the moment realise that the Jefferson would drop her anchor in such a spot.

"I am entitled," said Mr. Potter, "to state throughout that if the Jefferson does anchor she would do so as not to obstruct other ships. If the master of the Jefferson is endeavouring to establish that it was his intention to drop his anchor and drag it for 800 feet so as to avoid the Afrika, he is not sufficiently find except that he was utterly and hopelessly wrong in view of the fact that she was in the fairway and that we were only 1,200 feet away."

TRUE SOLUTION

Continuing, Mr. Potter said the Jefferson dropped her anchor, blew three blasts to show her intention of going full astern, and then finding she could not carry this out on account of the proximity of the dolphin, deliberately dragged the anchor 800 feet across the course to impede the Afrika. No Court, he contended, could find that the master of an inward bound ship should have expected such action as this.

Counsel then went on to say that the true solution of the collision was that the master of the Jefferson saw that the Afrika had not sufficiently recognised the position of the dolphin, and that, in the belief that he could swing with the tide, dropped his anchor. Immediately after he had done so, he realised his difficulties and attempted to alter his original intention by dragging the anchor, thus causing the collision.

Counsel further contended that even assuming the Afrika had been negligent on the facts of the case, she could not, as a matter of law, be held liable. Counsel quoted a number of authorities in support of this contention, and added that the action of the Jefferson was not for the Afrika but for her own purpose. The fact that the Jefferson was doing something for her own purpose could not be held against the Afrika as being partly responsible for the collision. The case is proceeding.

SAXONY CHURCH DISPUTE

FULL SETTLEMENT REACHED

Berlin, Nov. 19. After lasting nearly two years, the Church dispute in Saxony has been settled, apparently to everybody's satisfaction.

Hitler's Church Minister, Herr Kerl, has established an administrative committee of five, only two of whom are German Christians, and all the dissident pastors, of whom a number have been confined in concentration camps, will have their churches restored to them.—Reuter Special.

BRITISH LOAN TO RUSSIA

CZARIST DEBT MAY BE PAID

PRODUCTION RECORDS

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Nov. 19. It is authoritatively learned here to-day that Britain is officially considering a long-term loan to Russia coupled with the possible payment of the Czarist debts.

The British Foreign Office, the Treasury and the Board of Trade are at present considering the practicability of the suggestion although formal negotiations have not yet been started.—United Press.

CRAZE FOR RECORDS

Moscow, Nov. 19. The productivity records of Soviet workers compares favourably with those of the rest of the world, declared M. Molotov, addressing the All-Union Congress of Stakhanovites, adherents of the new craze for breaking labour records which is at present sweeping Russia.

In the coal industry, said M. Molotov, the highest productivity of mines in capitalist Europe had twice been exceeded and the best American standards had been surpassed in the motor car industry, while in the boot and shoe industry the Bata factories in Czechoslovakia had been left far behind. M. Molotov denied that the feats of Stakhanovism had been achieved by overstraining the workers at the expense of their health. He emphasised that the results had been secured by rationalisation, and expressed the hope that Stakhanovism would absorb the whole mass of workers and that the Soviet output would be doubled or trebled.—Reuter.

Riot Victim Buried

"WE DIE FOR EGYPT THE ETERNAL"

(Special to "Telegraph")

Cairo, Nov. 19. Representatives of all political parties, including Nahas Pasha, participated in the imposing funeral this afternoon of a student, son of an officer of King Fuad's bodyguard, who was shot by a British police officer in the riots on Thursday.

The funeral procession was headed by a band and followed by school girls bearing flowers, and then by a body of students.

As the coffin was carried out of the hospital, fellow-students who were injured in the rioting appeared at the windows, shouting, "We die for Egypt, the eternal."

A large police force in lorries followed the procession, but there was no disorder.—Reuter Special.

FAULTY SCALES

OPERATE AGAINST CUSTOMERS

Allegations that he used scales in his shop which were in some cases three ounces and in some two ounces short in the pound were made against Chai Psen, manager of Quin San and Co., of No. 90 Queen's Road Central, at the Central Magistracy this morning before Mr. W. Schofield.

Inspector A. V. Baker told the court that defendant was manager of the shop, which was the successor of M. Y. San and Co. Altogether seven scales were used in the shop. When he checked the scales, said Inspector Baker, he found that four were incorrect. Two of them were three ounces against the customer and two were two ounces short.

Defendant stated that he was unaware that the scales were short.

Inspector Baker said the shop was doing a big business, and three ounces and two ounces short in a pound were rather serious. These scales had not been checked for the last eighteen months.

An fine of $100 was imposed, and his Worship further ordered the scales to be confiscated.
